BANDITS PILLAGE DANCE HALL AND FIRE ON COUPLE

Man and Wife Slain While Chauffeur Seriously Wounded.

INN ROBBED BY BANDITS
Chauffeur Seeks to Prevent Robbery and Bandits Open Fire.

(By the Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Grant of Chicago were shot and killed in a dance hall in the western part of the city today. Wilfred Stalaker, their chauffeur, was wounded seriously. Police were told that the shooting was done by highwaymen.

Grant was about 48 years old. He was shot six times and his wife twice.

The dance hall was in the rear of the "Plantation Inn". James Hardaway, the proprietor, Charles Hutton and Sam Ritzer, employees, told the police the following story:

Grant and his wife and Stalaker arrived at the inn about 2 a. m. and took seats at a table in the dance hall. Shortly afterwards three armed youths entered, held up Stalaker, Hutton and Ritzer, took $60 from the cash register, then went to the dance hall. The proprietor and his men ran out, fearing there was going to be trouble and shortly afterwards heard shots. They did not see the bandits leave.

A few minutes after the shooting they re-entered the place and found Grant, his wife and Stalaker lying on the floor of the dance hall. Officers had difficulty in determining the identity of the three but later Stalaker regained consciousness and told the police who they were, giving the following account:

The Grant party was sitting in the dance hall when the bandits entered. Stalaker struck one of them in an effort to knock the revolver from his hand. The bandit fired, wounding Stalaker. The other two opened fire, Stalaker said, and he lost consciousness.

Stalaker said he drove the Grants here from Chicago yesterday. Grant was shot in the mouth, the abdomen, heart and both hands. Mrs. Grant was shot in the head. Indications were that there had been no attempt to rob Grant or Stalaker as both men had money and Mrs. Grant wore diamond rings, a diamond watch and a gold watch. Hardaway, Hutton and Ritzer told the officers that they had never before seen the Grants or Stalaker.

TRAIN SCHEDULE STILL HAMPERED

Frisco Expects to Resume Normal Service Late Tonight.

Tuesday found Ada with no relief from the hampered train service that has seriously menaced railroad traffic during the past two weeks.

While all schedules on railroad lines affecting Ada were unchanged, the Frisco reported prospects for complete relief from their handicap by Wednesday morning and the re-establishment of normal train schedules.

The local Frisco office reported that the bridge, which was washed out over the North Canadian near Weleetka would be repaired by late tonight or in the morning, which will permit the re-statement of fast trains from St. Louis, scheduled on night runs through Ada.

During the days following the havoc of the floods over the North Canadian, fast trains have been detoured by Wister, Hugo and Madill for southern points with only short runs to Wetumka and return made on this line.

Schedules on other lines out of Ada have not been altered since the floods made traffic on their lines uncertain. One day service is being followed out on the Santa Fe, while the Katy runs a train to Conkate every two days.

According to reports from the local postoffice, mail is being sent to Sasakwa on the Frisco and delivered by truck to Konawa.

Past Revealed When Veteran Regains Memory Through Shock

(By the Associated Press)

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Oct. 23.—A blow on the head that knocked Arthur E. Whitney, federal prohibition agent at Minneapolis, under the wheels of a beer-stealing truck here last Wednesday night, fracturing his skull, also knocked him into a realization of his real self, turning the pages of his life back five years it was revealed here today.

Arthur E. Whitney, overseas in France 27 months during the world war, passed three times and almost a victim of asphyxia his life before the last gas attack becoming a blank.

Following the war he landed in New York and obtained a job as federal enforcement agent. There he met the woman known as Mrs. Ann Whitney, a girl from Escanaba, Michigan, who lived in St. Paul with him for the past two years.

When Whitney regained consciousness last night at a local hospital for the first time since

Wednesday, except for fleeting moments, standing beside his bed was Mrs. Luella Whitney, who married him in Grafton, North Dakota, in 1912, and who bore him two sons. "Kiss me, Luella," said Whitney. "When are you going to take me home?"

He knew nothing of Ann Whitney; nothing of the baby that she is soon to bear; nothing of the almost completed divorce proceedings between himself and Luella, and nothing about how he was hurt. Whitney had a faint idea that he had been a government dry agent, however. He asked his wife how the boys were but apparently did not realize the passage of time.

Last night, also for the first time, physicians said definitely that Whitney will recover. In the first interview she has granted since she came here after Whitney was injured, Mrs. Luella Whitney stated positively that she has not yet been legally divorced from Whitney.

The proceedings were gone through but she insisted that under the laws of North Dakota she remained legally married until November 1. By nine days the course of Whitney's life was moved backward five years. Mrs. Whitney told of her marriage to the prohibition agent and of their two sons, but refused to discuss the divorce proceedings or what she planned to do after November 1.

Mrs. Ann Whitney left St. Cloud Saturday for an unknown destination.

Mrs. Luella Whitney intimated she might consider the past a closed book and effect a reconciliation with her almost divorced husband and "live happily ever after."

Although it was reported that Ann Whitney was Whitney's common law wife up to three weeks ago when he is said to have married her, Luella Whitney denied that her husband had ever wedded the other woman.

May be Vagrant But Not Lazy

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 23. When Police Judge O. P. Estes fined Connie Smith, 19 year old girl, $20 on a vagrancy charge today, the fair prisoner seized a brass cuspidor that stood before the bar and hurled it at the judge's head.

Judge Estes ducked behind the high desk, however, and was not injured.

Police officers grabbed the girl and led her to a cell.

ROFF BOARD OF TRUSTEES FREED OF ACCUSATION

Judge Smith Sustains Demurrer to Accusation Against Roff Officials.

BOB BELL HELD

Wimbish and Bullock Upheld on Points of Contention Before Court.

The first test of the Pontotoc county grand jury activities failed to stand before the piercing investigation of the courts as the accusation, charging the board of trustees of the town of Roff, with neglect of duty and oppression in office was cast aside when Special Judge C. C. Smith of Guthrie sustained a demurrer to the accusation late Monday afternoon.

The demurrer to the accusation against Bob Bell, town marshal of Roff, charged with oppression in office, was overruled and the accusation slated for hearing at a later date.

Argument on the points set out in the demurrer to the accusation started at 10 o'clock Monday morning and was ended at 2:30 Monday afternoon when Judge Smith rendered his findings.

All points set out in the demurrer were sustained by Judge Smith.

Four Points Set Out
Attorneys Robert Wimbish and A. L. Bullock, defending the board of trustees of the town of Roff were sustained in the four principal issues in the demurrer to accusation.

That members of the board were accused under the wrong statute, the charges of the accusation applying to cities of the first class.

That the accusation failed to accuse violation of any laws of the state.

That members of the board of trustees were not responsible for the alleged misconduct of the town marshal of Roff.

That the accusation failed to state any fact authorizing their removal or authorizing the naming of their successor and the appointment was in direct conflict with the laws of the state.

The accusation charging the board of trustees of Roff with neglect of duty and oppression evolved from a similar accusation against Bob Bell, town marshal of Roff, who is alleged in an accusation returned by the Pontotoc county grand jury to be guilty of oppression while carrying out his duties as an officer at Roff. Eight specific cases of oppression are cited in the accusation against Bell and also mentioned in the accusation against the board of trustees to set out points of neglect of duty in connection with alleged misconduct of Bell.

Bell is alleged, in the accusation to have assaulted a number of persons at Roff and the Board of trustees being held by their accusation also in the responsibility.

The Board of Trustees, whose defense was established in the sustaining of the demurrer, included Irvin Turner, W. W. Williams, Grady Lambert, E. C. Larsh and Roy McKee.

COTTON

Cotton receipts continue to climb slowly but with the continued fair weather the movement is likely to be accelerated considerably for the remainder of the week.

Up to 3 o'clock this afternoon the county scales had received 43 bales. Monday's receipts were 55. The receipts for the season total 1146 bales. About 385 round bales have been ginned here. Counting these as half bales the total for the season to date is 1,340.

SCOUT PROGRAM FOR ADA NAMED

Executive Committee Reviews Work and Outlines Future Progress.

Judge Orel Busby's office was the meeting place for a very important meeting of the executive committee yesterday of the Pontotoc County Council of Boy Scouts. W. J. Coffman, W. D. Little, Wm. Pegg, J. E. Hickman, C. E. Cuning, M. O. Matthews, S. M. Shaw, and Harry W. Miller were present to discuss plans for the new year. The executive committee decided to make no drive for funds during the year except in the way of enlisting more friends to support the movement from the new prospective supporters who have recently moved to Ada.

An enlarged out-of-door, woodcraft, camping, adult-boy leadership training and scoutmaster training program will be launched during the year.

The most outstanding feature of the meeting was the unanimous satisfaction of the entire committee with the work of the last year as compared with that of the former year and especially with the small cost to Ada of such a program compared with that of the larger city councils, which had a larger budget and many less scouts, with fewer advancements into the higher ranks, less activities for the scouts and less camping.

According to official reports on file in the regional office at Houston, Texas, this council has the smallest budget of any in the region of 39 councils and ranks third in point of number of scouts in the state of Oklahoma. It has been figured out by national headquarters that the amount of money contributed per capita for scout work is only 35 cents. In comparison with the amount spent for clothing, gum, tobacco and other luxuries, this is a very small item. The committee reports as confident of the future of boy scout work here and in the county, of the continued support of this important work, enlarges its program, and from a sense of patriotism to the future welfare of our coming citizenship urges all to co-operate to the fullest extent with this great civic enterprise. Nothing in their judgment is too good for Ada's own boyhood.

ONE CHARGE SUSTAINED

The News was informed at 4:30 by Representative Fred F. Brydia by telephone that the second charge against the governor, the charge accusing him of diverting funds from one department to another was sustained in the house by a vote of 80 to 17. Mr. Brydia voted to sustain the charge.

FORD GROOMED IN PRESIDENCY RACE

Formation of New Party to be Sought at Ford-for-President Meet.

(By the Associated Press)
DETROIT, Oct. 22.—The formation of a new political party with Henry Ford as its standard bearer will be undertaken by a national organization conference of all Ford-for-president clubs to be held here December 12, 13 and 14. The call for the organization conference was decided upon at a meeting last night by several Michigan Ford clubs.

The conference, according to leaders of the movement, probably will name the date and place for holding a nominating convention next spring.

The conference call will go out within a few days, it was stated by William Kronberg, secretary of the Dearborn Ford-for-president club.

The Dearborn club, he said, had been inactive for some time owing to its inability to obtain from Mr. Ford a statement as to whether or not he would accept a nomination by the party the clubs might organize.

Mr. Kronberg estimated that the number of Ford clubs now in existence at between 300 and 400 and added that he was advised that the conference would attract at least 3,000 delegates and visitors.

The sessions of the organization conference, he said, would be held in the auditorium at Dearborn home of Henry Ford.

Last night's meeting at which about a score of delegates were present was presided over by Judge Edward Jeffries of the recorders court of Detroit.

DETROIT, Oct. 23.—A call for a national organization conference of all Ford-for-President clubs to be held in Dearborn, home of Henry Ford, December 12-13-14 was decided upon at a meeting of several local Ford clubs here last night.

Brydia Repudiates Blake Alliance to Start Fight on Klan

(OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 23.)—Repudiating the report that he had been in conference with Aldrich Blake and Mrs. A. M. Robinette of Los Angeles, which was published in several newspapers Monday, Fred F. Brydia, representative from Pontotoc county, said today that he had never seen Mrs. Robinette until Sunday, that he had not talked to Blake since Blake's return from the East until this morning, and that he had been in no conference with them.

While Mr. Brydia did not say whether he will support the governor in the impeachment proceedings, this statement apparently does away with any idea that he and Blake were joining forces to fight the Ku Klux Klan.

Asked what the lower house of the legislature will do, the Ada solon expressed the belief that the impeachment will carry approximately 75 to 15 or 20.

Radio messages were recently received on an aerial set up in the steel coaches of a train running from New York to Chicago.

Preliminary Work Finished for Tax Collections Here

Preliminary details in the collection of delinquent taxes on warrants were being disposed of in the sheriff's office today and plans for the allotment of warrants to collectors under way.

Undersheriff P. H. Deal stated that it would be necessary for warrants to be listed and recorded before being turned over to the hands of collectors.

The office has received several requests of delinquent taxpayers during the past two days to be allowed to pay taxes before the warrants reach the hands of collectors and service made.

The collection of taxes through warrants will require penalty or the taxpayers to meet the cost of warrant service.

Mad Burst of Clemency Acts Empties Cells of State Penitentiary.

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 23.—Join Capps, convicted of murder in Sequoyah county in May last and sentenced to serve 10 years in the state penitentiary, was pardoned today by Gov. J. C. Walton.

E. A. Kilgore, convicted on a statutory charge in McCurtain county January last, was sentenced to a year, was also pardoned. The Kilgore pardon was dated October 15 but was not filed until today.

Roy Yarber, convicted of robbery in Pottawatomie county last March and sentenced to 25 years, was paroled.

Jack Mitchell, 19, son of Mrs. Iva Mitchell, an employee of the state pardon and parole office, who was pardoned yesterday by the governor following his conviction and sentence of three years on a grand larceny charge, was re-arrested today at the jail door here immediately after his release.

The arrest was by order of Lee G. Gill, assistant county attorney who announced that he was preparing a charge of conjoint robbery against Mitchell. At the time of his conviction on the larceny charge a sentence for 25 years for conjoint robbery was suspended. After the governor's action in releasing him from the three year term county authorities determined to reopen the other case.

APPEAL DOCKET SLATED FOR DISPOSAL HERE

Wednesday will be a busy day in county court when County Judge Tal Crawford hears 18 appeal cases from city court and from the city court of Francis.

Judge Crawford stated that the entire special docket would be disposed of Wednesday.

The majority of the cases appealed from the city court constitute charges of speeding. Four cases brought here from Francis set out charges of assault and battery.

BYNUM TELLS COMMITTEE OF SPECIAL FAVORS GRANTED BY WALTON TO POLITICAL FRIENDS

Former Banking Commissioner Tells of Break Over Appointment; Claimed Oil Men Contributed Heavily to Walton Fund.

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 23.—Dr. E. T. Bynum, former confidant of Gov. J. C. Walton, told the investigation and impeachment committee of the lower house of the Oklahoma legislature that he ascribed his removal from the office of state banking commissioner to his refusal to appoint an unqualified man as assistant commissioner at the behest of the executive, according to his testimony read today to the full membership of the house.

Bynum testified that "a man named Baugh" came to his office with a note from the governor stating that he wanted the man named as assistant commissioner. Dr. Bynum declared that the man explained to him that he did not intend to work but that he was to be placed on the roll of the department and "use his influence for the governor."

The former commissioner explained that he entered into a technical discussion with the visitor and found that he knew nothing about banking, whereupon he declined to consider him as an applicant for the assistantship.

Dr. Bynum told the committee that he was later summoned to the governor's office and the executive declared:

"That stuff won't get by. I've five more friends you have got to take care of."

The witness said he stood his ground and that the difference with the executive was never adjusted. Baugh was not identified in the testimony.

KLAN SPECIAL TO MAKE PILGRIMAGE

Special Train to Carry Ada Klansmen to Dallas Conclave.

The Ada Ku Klux Klan will again assemble in the still hours of the night.

This time the knights of the imperial order will not convene in any of the pastures of the near vicinity of Ada but scatter down the main streets before their special to Dallas pulls out at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning.

While Ada sleeps, kluxers will board their special train here for their pilgrimage to Dallas, where they will be the guests of honor at a huge ceremonial and parade Wednesday, Klan Day, at the Dallas state fair.

According to all available information over 100 klansmen from Ada will board the special for the Dallas occasion, while 25 more of the hooded band will make up the delegation from the county. Delegations will be picked up down the line to the Texas border.

According to information at the Frisco offices, accommodations are being furnished for 400 passengers on the special train, leaving the remainder of the delegation to be picked up at towns along the route.

Five cars will make up the special, train, according to advices at the local railroad offices.

The Frisco received notification from the division superintendent to supply the equipment for the special train to leave here Wednesday morning.

It is rumored a local band will also accompany the kluxers on their pilgrimage to the Dallas fair. All reports locally tend to show that Ada will suffer an exodus Wednesday.

School Inspection Stated.

Schools of Pontotoc county will be in excellent condition when they fall subject to inspection during the latter part of November, according to County Superintendent A. Floyd. Luther Russel, state school inspector, has informed superintendent Floyd that he will spend several days in Pontotoc county in November.

Dr. Bynum told of numerous campaigns for financial support waged by the governor, both before and after his election. The witness said that he had represented the governor in several cases.

He said the primary campaign fund was between $35,000 and $40,000.

Dr. Bynum declared, according to the testimony, that C. J. Wrightsman, wealthy Tulsa oil man, whom the governor named chairman of the board of regents of the University of Oklahoma, had contributed $12,000 to the primary campaign fund and that Wait Phillips, also a wealthy Tulsa oil magnate, gave the executive $5,000 with which to support of his "committee of 21" which framed much of the legislation proposed in the last regular session of the legislature, according to the witness.

A contribution of $1,500 from E. W. Marland, president of the Marland Oil and Refining Co., of Ponca City, Dr. Bynum said, was used by the governor to entertain members of the legislature during the January session.

Dr. Bynum recalled also that Phillips has contributed another $800 and Homer Wilcox, also an oil man, $1,000 for the purchase of an automobile which the governor turned over to Aldrich Blake for the latter's personal use. Bynum succeeded Blake as executive counselor.

Wrightsman made a second contribution of $6,000 to finance the governor's paper, "The Reconstructionist," a campaign organ issued before his election, according to the testimony.

The expenses of Murray Gibbons, speaker of the house at the last regular session, in his race for the speakership were borne by Gov. Walton, Dr. Bynum declared.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 23.—Testimony given by Dr. E. T. Bynum, former close advisor of Gov. J. C. Walton, before the investigation and impeachment committee of the lower house of the Oklahoma legislature was being read today to the full membership of the house.

The reading of Bynum's statement to the committee was commenced just before noon following delays in the impeachment program caused by the transaction of routine business by the house.

Bynum was for a time executive counselor. He was later made state banking commissioner by Gov. Walton and recently, following the collapse of the executive's fight on the Ku Klux Klan he was removed from office, thus administering.

He was examined by the committee immediately after his discharge.

It appeared likely today that a vote would not be taken before tomorrow on the acceptance of the committee report although some

America Cleaned Up One Of World's Great Plague Spots In Aid To Russia, Says Haskell

Lt. R.—CYRIL J. C. QUINN of SAGINAW MICH. ASST. DIRECTOR OF THE RUSSIAN UNIT OF THE A. R. A. COL. HASKELL, DIRECTOR and ELMER G. BURLAND of BERKELEY, CAL. WHO AS CHIEF OF THE REMITTANCE DIVISION, A. R. A. IN RUSSIA, CONTROLLED THE DELIVERY OF FOOD AND CLOTHING PACKAGES

America's work in Russia cleaned up one of the great plague spots of the world, according to Col. William N. Haskell, director of the Russian Unit of the American Relief Administration, who landed recently in New York with the last of the Americans who had been with him in Moscow.

"Russia, when we went in, was more than a famine country," he said. "It was a disease focus. Famine could have been confined to Russia, but typhus and cholera know no man-made boundaries. I am not sure that the medical work accomplished by the American Relief Administration has not saved even more lives than the feeding of more than ten million Russians."

"Aside from vast areas where there was actual starvation and the prompt arrival of American food saved the population from being wiped out, diseases borne by refugees fleeing from famine districts had spread throughout the country. Hospitals were overcrowded, their supplies and equipment almost nil because of years of war; water supplies polluted and sewer systems broken down, and everything disorganized. Every filthy freight car, crowded with refugees, was a breeding place for typhus-bearing vermin. In some cities corpses lay unburied in the streets and hundreds of bodies were piled in cellars of hospitals. And Russia was threatening her neighbors with contagion."

"When Gorly and the patriarch, Tikhon, appealed to the world for aid in the summer of 1921, and Herbert Hoover offered through the American Relief Administration to feed a million Russian children, we never dreamed that before we finished America would be called upon to feed nearly ten and a half million children and adults. And even then we were feeding only just enough to keep them alive, with our 912,000 tons of supplies—just kept alive children and grown-ups who otherwise would have starved to death until they could plant their fields again. With this encouragement Russia is no longer a famine country. It is emerging from the pauper class. And now typhus cases are no more frequent than before the war. We inoculated literally millions of people and checked cholera. With 30 tons of quinine we helped the fight against malaria; and we supplied the neo-salvarsan which has all but wiped out recurrent typhus. "There were 6,317,958 corn rations for adults issued in a single month—a fund of corn a day for 31 days; and during that same month 4,173,339 children were sitting down every day to a hot meal served in some 20,000 kitchens and children's homes. That was in August, 1922. And even that doesn't include thousands of people kept alive that month by A. R. A. food packages bought by relatives and friends or philanthropic persons in America."

"And I am thinking of the 200 other Americans who worked month in and month out in a famine and disease-ridden country, overcoming seemingly insuperable difficulties, singing when they were lonesome, grinning when things went wrong, joking when they were sick, just to keep the spirit of the others up. Blandy died of typhus out at Ufa last spring. Sheild was killed at Simbirsk and his body never found. Although Colonel Haskell was lent by the Army, the great American work of relief in Russia and elsewhere in Europe should not be regarded as a military job. More than ninety per cent. of all the American personnel was civilian."

The Waiting Year

By ELLA SAUNDERS

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

OURS is a jail town, as they call it. The grim bulk of the penitentiary overshadows everything, and quite a number of the population are connected with the penitentiary in one way or another. Yet it is a homey little place. There are schools, and there are gardens with flowers in them. We do not let the penitentiary overshadow our hearts.

Little Miss Esther Biggs occupied a cottage at the other end of town. She was a spinster lady of between forty and fifty, thin, fading, but very much beloved. How could anyone help loving Miss Esther? She would go the limit to help anyone who was in need of her. People wondered that she had never married. She must have had opportunities. And she would have made a splendid wife for the man who was worthy of her.

She was employed in the village office, making out electric light vouchers and keeping books. She got a poor salary, but she lived very simply, and all alone. A lonely sort of life. But she was happy. No one ever saw Miss Esther unhappy. She was always gentle, too. Only once she was known to have been roused to anger, and that was when she saw a carter beating his horse. She almost flew at him.

The main road runs right through our town. The men from the penitentiary, who are released Tuesdays and Fridays, generally go to the depot, but a good many of them hit the pike, north or south. Dreadful men, stamped with all the suffering of those years in prison. They always walk with a sort of quick, sprightly air—it is impossible to mistake them in their new, cheap suits, with that look of dread and hopelessness on their gray faces. Sometimes boys follow them out of curiosity.

Little Miss Esther sometimes stood at her gate in the noon hour and watched these creatures pass. Sometimes she timidly offered them water or cookies.

One particular Friday it was that the little group around the penitentiary saw the released men coming out of the gates. They walked with their usual bewildered look, their faces turned up unconsciously to catch the sunlight.

Among them, last of them, came a man of about fifty years. He shambled rather than walked, and there was a look on his face so dreadful that all instinctively shrank away from him. And somehow a whisper went around that this man had served a sentence of twenty years for murder.

How did it originate? No one knew. But from the look on his face one might have thought that he was ripe for another murder. The group began to follow him. A boy went near, shouted something derisive at him. The man turned.

The boys ran whimpering, from him. Such a look was like a dagger thrust. The man was a devil! The man was mad! They followed at a greater distance.

He did not take the road to the depot, but marched along the pike. The crowd grew. There was something terrible about this man. He was like a lost soul. From afar someone threw a stone at him. It struck him on the face. A speck of blood appeared as he turned around. For a moment he stood with clenched fists, and then took up his journey again.

Little Miss Esther, home from the office for the noon hour, was standing at her gate. The man was making his way toward her. He was reeling and muttering. He was mad. A dog ran across the street, and he aimed a kick at it.

Someone ran ahead. "Don't speak to that man, Miss Biggs. He's mad. He's done twenty years in the pen!" The man came on. He was abreast of Miss Esther's gate now. She had a bag of cookies in her hand, she held it out timidly toward him.

The man turned on her with arm upraised to strike. Two or three men ran toward them.

And then—what happened? Nobody quite knew afterward. But of a sudden little Miss Esther's arms were round the dreadful man's neck, pulling his head down fiercely to her breast.

"Harry, I've waited twenty years for you here, to ask you to forgive and forget. Come inside, Harry. Come inside with me."

He was yielding. Little Miss Esther raised a strained, white face to the crowd.

"This is my husband," she said proudly.

Such Carelessness.

The newly elected president of a banking institution was being introduced to the employees. He singled out one of the men in the cashier's cage, questioning him in detail about his work, etc.

"I have been here forty years," said the cashier's assistant, with conscious pride, "and in all that time I only made one slight mistake."

"Good," replied the president. "Let me congratulate you. But hereafter be more careful."—Wall Street Journal.

Only Reasonable.

"Street gowns are longer." "Of course," replied Miss Cayenne. "Bathing suits are as short as ever and a girl needs protection from sunburn at least part of the day."

This Is The Town That Bell Rebuilt; American Relief Administration Worker Uses Corn As Lure and Ufa Takes New Life

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT AT UFA.

Ufa, in Russia, isn't the town it was. American corn pulled it out of the mud, as well as out of the famine. Pavements, bridges, sewers, even railroads have been built in and about Ufa by workmen under the direction of Colonel W. L. Bell, who hired them, not because they were strong enough to do the work most efficiently, but because they were starving, and could be paid in corn which they would have received anyway. "Those who work eat" was Colonel Bell's dictum and as everybody was hungry everybody worked.

Twenty miles of railroad, a rock-lined storm drain half a mile long, 278 new bridges, repairs to schools and hospitals and miles of new road are among the permanent improvements in the Ufa area as a result of the famine relief work as administered by Colonel Bell.

The railroad runs from Beloutze to Laphistra just south of the main line of the Trans-Siberian and just east of the Urals. It connects the Beloutze Iron Works with important coal and iron ore areas and has enabled the works to be run continuously. The storm drain is in the city of Zaloust and had been projected for years, but there was never enough money on hand to build it. When the corn came there were hundreds of men—all famine victims—who were hugely content to work for food. The 278 bridges are built across creeks and lesser rivers throughout the area.

The policy of making relief and reconstruction go hand in hand has been generally pursued by the American Relief Administration. Physicians were given food packages and thereby enabled to continue their practice. The Russian doctors who carried out the program of inoculation against disease were paid with food. In so far as possible the relief given to homes and hospitals was used as a spur to raise the standards of the institutions.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa returning from his recent visit to Russia said that the American Relief Administration had given that country a "national education." "The idea" continued the Senator, "that in return for the food, roads should be built; hospitals and children's homes repaired and re-equipped; cities cleaned up and put in a sanitary condition, and that the workers should be paid in food was a wonderful one. It worked out marvelously and you will find that the Russians themselves will adopt it in the future. It is an idea of unlimited possibilities."

Improved steamship facilities bring the Orient as near as many parts of Europe. In fact, it is no more of a jump to Shanghai than it is to Mediterranean ports, and the steamers that ply the Pacific are as good as the best of the fleet. The "Empress of Russia" of the Canadian Pacific Oriental fleet, has the record for crossing the mightiest of oceans from Vancouver, B. C., to Yokohama in considerably less time than nine days—to be exact, 8 days, 18 hours and 31 minutes from Yokohama to William Head, Victoria. This record is rivaled only by the other steamers of the Canadian Pacific, which are conceded to be the biggest and fastest on the Pacific.

Shanghai, the chief port of all China and the one through which most of the tremendous tide of traffic with the Celestial Republic flows, is a big humming city, the smallest part of which is foreign. This part, although small in numbers, is very influential in the trade of China and the Orient. Every nation on the globe is represented in this city, although the British and Americans have a bit of the best of the situation. Hugo Stinnes, the great German magnate, is a very important business factor there. He has in his China Company a vast enterprise which is steadily growing in importance.

Scenes in Shanghai are interesting and will engage the attention of the traveler for months if he has the time. Money changers and exchange speculators dash from bank to bank in one-hour victories and have the right of way of the traffic. On time hang their profits. Exchange is such a changeable quantity in the Far East that profits, made on fractions of cents, rise and fall with lightning rapidity, depending, of course, on trade's supply and demand. Rickshaws, to be had for small silver pieces, dash in and out among the heavily burdened Chinese coolies and the closed chairs, of sheltered and rich Manchurian ladies of high estate. Automobiles vie with the human horses for business. Mandarins in their Oriental garb and Europeans and Americans in Occidental attire throng the streets. Silk policemen in turbans and military uniforms, as well as Chinese police in mushroom-shaped hats of straw and blue uniforms, keep the peace.

The streets are dense with a most cosmopolitan crowd which keeps flowing from early morning to late at night. The shops are wonderful and are filled with goods that are the envy of all women.

The Bund looks out on a harbor filled with sea-craft of all shapes and sizes. Sampanns, Chinese junk, ocean tramps and trim liners fill the space. Chinese families in thousands spend their lives on the sea, coming to land only to sell their products—mostly sea food—and get supplies.

China's railways center in Shanghai and from here wonderful train and boat trips are possible. Pekin, the gorges of the Yang-tze-kang, even Mongolia and Manchuria, are within rail and steamer connection with Shanghai.

Sturdy Mongolian and Tartar ponies are imported from the north for racing. These are hard-looking animals when they arrive in Shanghai, but with care and attention they become very creditable in appearance. Horse racing is very popular in China and Shanghai has what has been termed the richest course in the world. Polo, golf, tennis and all of the games known to Europeans and Americans, besides a few unknown to either, are to be found here.

FLIERS ESCAPE DEATH WHEN PLANE FALLS AND BURNS

The biggest thrill in the recent Grand Prix races held by the Aero Club of France was contributed by Pilot Thiery and his mechanic. During one of the races their plane crashed to the ground in a field near Le Bourget. The two fliers not only escaped death in the fall, but managed to release themselves and climb clear of the machine before it burst into flames. The plane was destroyed. The lucky fliers were picked up later.

NAZARENE ASSEMBLY OPEN FOR CONFERENCE

The assembly is now in session at the Convention Hall. Today has been devoted to the examination of ministers desiring license.

This evening at 7:30 Reverend S. H. Owens, district superintendent of eastern Oklahoma will bring the message. The evening services will be evangelistic, the people of Ada will miss a treat if they fail to hear Reverend Owens at this hour.

The assembly proper will open Wednesday morning at 9:00. Mr. C. E. Cunningham, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will give the welcome address; Rev. Whitwell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will follow. Reverend S. H. Owens will respond to these addresses; Dr. Goodwin, general superintendent from California, will bring greetings from the church in general.

The church orchestra will be present to assist in the opening service. All services will be held at the Assembly Hall.

Forum Literary Society

The Forum Literary Society of the East Central State Teachers College held its regular meeting Monday night. The first debate of the year was given in a very commendable and spirited style. The subjects of the debate were "Resolved that co-education be eliminated from the public schools." The problem of co-education is one of the many subjects that is causing much comment among our educators and also public thinking people at large. Being a topic of such importance the debate created much interest in both the debaters and members of the society.

Mr. E. E. Emerson gave a short discussion on the French in the Ruhr valley. The discussion was from an intellectual and impartial standpoint, and was based on substantial facts.

New members were received into the society and necessary business was taken up. Mr. Zimmerman gave a short talk concerning the welfare of the society and expressed a hope of obtaining more valuable members after which the meeting was adjourned.

County Schools to Be in Session at Conference Close

Practically all the schools in Pontotoc county will be in session after November 12, following the close of the East Central Educational association conference here, according to County Superintendent A. Floyd.

With the exception of city schools and a few larger schools in the county, schools will not open for the year until after November 12, Floyd stated.

Several teachers had made known their intention of starting rural schools in November 1, but later intimated that the schools would await opening until the conference is concluded.

The attendance of rural teachers at the conference here November 8, 9, and 10 will be required of teachers of the county and consequently force a delay should school be started before that date Floyd stated.

GERMAN REPORTERS SAD AS CRUISER WASTES BREAD

DANZIG, Oct. 5.—A group of German newspapermen recently visited the United States cruiser Pittsburgh in this harbor and joined in saying the most astonishing thing they saw was the tossing overboard of a quantity of white bread left from the noonday meal of the crew. "It was the first white bread most of us had seen in years," one reporter declared.

None of the visitors wrote much about the cruiser's armament. It was the kitchens, the food and ways of serving meals that held their attention.

BYNUM EXPOSES GOVERNOR'S ACTS

pointed out that a night session might bring the formalities to an end by midnight. The prediction was made freely that the house will vote to sustain some or all of the charges, thus bringing them before the senate committee which first would pass upon the admissibility before organizing as a trial body. Opposition to the impeachment action is said by political observers to be negligible.

All of the 22 specific charges contained in the house bill of impeachment will be voted on separately, each being declared grounds upon which to place the governor on trial.

May Suspend Governor. It is considered certain that Gov. Walton will be suspended from his office during the period of his trial if any of the charges are sustained by the house. The senate already has made known its intention to move to disqualify him if this is done.

A resolution directing investigation of the pardon of Earnest Essen, charged with having stolen property at Okemah, was submitted to the house today. A petition signed by 100 residents of Oklahoma county was appended to the resolution. The petitioners declared that they had traced robberies and burglaries to Essen's store and that after he had been convicted by a jury of farmers he was pardoned.

The house today advanced to the passage stage Senate bill No. 1, appropriating $100,000 for the expense of the session.

Before adjournment was taken late yesterday afternoon the testimony of Aldrich Blake, former executive councillor, before the investigating committee had been read. Blake whose removal from office just after the legislature went into session, furnished the surprise of the moment, was questioned concerning his official relations with the governor. These he set out in detail. Among other things he explained his mysterious trip just after state-wide martial law was declared, asserting that he went at the direction of the governor to New York and Michigan to solicit financial support for the fight against the Ku Klux Klan. He said he returned empty handed.

Throughout yesterday Gov. Walton remained in seclusion refusing to comment on legislative activities. He continued his silence today.

FIVE OTHERS RECEIVE FEDERAL COURT COUNT

Five others, who had the federal laws in the vicinity of Ada, received sentences at the hands of the federal court at Ardmore, according to local officers who appeared as witnesses in cases before the session.

With the sentencing of five last week, Pontotoc county quota was raised to eight, three having been sentenced on charges of violation of Harrison Narcotic act.

The five charges heard in federal court last week dealt with violation of the national prohibition act, exclusively.

Officers, who served as witnesses at Ardmore stated that evidence in most cases was conclusive and pleas of guilty were entered in practically all of them.

The five receiving verdicts from the federal court at Ardmore last week were: Bessie Aycock, fined $50 and permitted a stay if she would leave the state immediately; Pearl Jones, fined $50 and released on payment; Arthur High, fined $50 and sentenced for sixty days confinement in federal jail; Johnnie Johnson, fined $25 in two cases; Joe Watson, negro, fined $50 and permitted a stay in order to secure the money at Ada.

Lloyd-George is Guest at Marion on Homage Mission

(By the Associated Press)
MARION, O., Oct. 23.—Lloyd-George, former British premier, arrived here early today to pay his respects to Mrs. Harding and do homage to the late president by visiting his tomb here.

Lloyd-George breakfasted in his private car after which a delegation of Marion citizens called and escorted him about Marion. The first stop was at The Marion Star, the newspaper formerly owned by President Harding, and where the late chief executive spent the best years of his life in building a modern newspaper. Lloyd-George then was taken to the Harding homes, thence to the Marion cemetery to visit Mr. Harding's tomb.

The party then motored to White Oak farm, the home of Brig. Gen. C. E. Sawyer, the former president's physician, where the former premier visited Mrs. Harding.

Hynds Reports of Expenditures in Veterans Bureau

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The special senate committee investigating the Veteran's Bureau was told today by Director Hynds that on one occasion the bureau paid $64,000 for an architect's plans for a hospital at Livermore, California, and then found that the drawings submitted were unsuitable.

The director stated that the payment was made before he had come into office and that the recipient, Matthew O'Brien of Los Angeles, had filed a claim for an additional $13,000, which was disallowed. Gen. Hynds added that O'Brien had

OPTIMISM SEEN IN CLUB REPORT

Chamber of Commerce and Auxiliary Plan Active Program Here.

That Ada is now in a better condition than it has been in many years, that a better spirit of cooperation and good will is in evidence and that the future of the city is brighter, was the keynote sounded by President C. E. Cunningham of the Chamber of Commerce at the monthly luncheon today. He predicted great things in view of the part the ladies are now taking in the Chamber work.

Mrs. Mabel Browall, secretary of the Ladies Auxiliary, told of the plans and aims of the body. The Auxiliary was organized the first of this month with an initial membership of twenty-five. That has now been increased to one hundred. The membership fee is not money but hours of work. Each member agrees to give twenty-five hours work each year. The goal is for 400 members.

The ladies have already helped raise money to meet the expenses of the two November conventions, the Baptists and the teachers. The tentative program calls for beautifying the city, by urging better kept lawns and alleys and the beautification of public grounds and buildings. Tree planting is to receive attention and the highways leading into the city are to be bordered with beautiful trees.

Other aims are: building a Y. M. C. A., assistance in making permanent the community choral club, better educational facilities and co-operation in every way with the Chamber of Commerce in all worthy endeavors.

The ladies present as guests of the Chamber were Mesdames Browall, C. J. Skirvin, S. P. Ross, L. A. Ellison, Cora McKeel, M. C. Griggs, Melissa Biles and J. H. Biles. The president Mrs. C. A. Galbraith, and some members of the committee could not be present.

Prof. R. R. Robinson of the College entertained the members and guests with an interpretation of what a Chamber of Commerce is and should do. It should be cosmopolitan; it should examine a town; determine the things to do and do them. The needed things need not all be attacked at once, as it is often best to do one thing before going on to others. His remarks were along the practical lines for a Chamber of Commerce to follow, emphasizing the practical way of doing things.

Prof. M. P. Hatchett, in behalf of the College, invited the citizens to be present and root for the College football team next Friday and a week from that date. Next Friday the tigers meet the teachers from Weatherford, one of the strong college teams of the state.

Secretary Waner announced the program for next week, carnival week:

Monday night—"District Skule" Mr. J. A. Biles, director.
Tuesday night—E. C. S. T. C. Organizations—Prof. A. L. Pentem, director.

Wednesday night—Vaudeville, F. J. Schreiber, director and Hal-loween Dance, Mrs. B. M. King, director.

Thursday night—H. S. Organizations, Prof. W. A. Hill director.
Friday night—Tacky Dance, Jimmie Stotts, director.

Saturday night, Athletic night Ada Athletic Club.

County Commissioner Pace reports that the sea of mud in the road near Fitzhugh has been eliminated. Mr. Pace said that was the worst place he ever saw. A spring of water began flowing in the center of the road and for yards in each direction made the roadbed apparently bottomless. Loads of rock and gravel were poured into the mud before any relief could be found. Many motorists have been stuck in the hole since the rains a week ago.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

MAN'S BIRTHRIGHT:—Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of thy hands; thou hast put all things under his feet.—Psalms 8:6.

DESIRABLE CONVENTIONS

Naturally Ada wants conventions of all kinds, but particularly should we be glad to entertain church people and school people. The Nazarenes will be here for the next several days. The teachers will be here within the next two weeks, and a week after the teachers the Baptists come.

The world is coming to realize more than ever before the necessity of putting first first and second second. The idea business takes precedence over churches is giving way to the idea that religion should come first and business will follow as a natural consequence. Permanent prosperity is based upon contented, home loving people, and such people must have places of worship and must have the spirit of worship.

We know that Ada will entertain the visitors most delightfully. We believe, too, that we ought to start a campaign to get every religious convention possible to our city. Such conventions will quicken the religious fervor of all of us, and great will come from the associations.

The question of automobiles around universities and colleges is coming in for discussion and in some cases drastic action. It has been pointed out that joy rides and education do not mix very readily and the boy or girl who owns a machine seldom gets anywhere near the top of the course. Hence a number of larger institutions are forbidding students to keep cars unless they live some distance from the school and actually need them. In our day there were no autos and even if there had been mighty few of us would have been any better off. It would have still been straight foot power any way. However, we don't remember anyone who had to go to the hospital because of over exertion. On the other hand we had loafers then as well as now. The large majority of those who have made good since leaving school back in those days were the ones who had to hustle to get enough to eat and often had only one suit of clothes. They were there for business and had to make good. Doubtless it is the same today.

With the exit of Walton we may reasonably hope that the law will be permitted to take its course instead of every crook who has the money to employ a man with a pull getting a pardon by the time he reaches the doors of the penitentiary. It will be some job for the county officials of the state to again round up the crooks who have been turned loose to resume their criminal careers, but there is little doubt about most of them being back behind the bars inside of a year and all the hard work of convicting them in the first instance will have to be gone through with again. Walton had such a sympathy for criminals that he could not bear to let the vilest murderer or rapist go to the electric chair although he had no scruples about ordering the national guard to shoot, and shoot to kill, if the legislators undertook to meet in defiance of his orders.

No use to give up in despair because one has reached middle life without attaining to a high place. A current magazine relates the story of the chairman of the board of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank. Starting as a messenger boy in a small town bank he rose in course of 19 years to the position of cashier at a salary of $1,800 per year. He was then 40 years old but had not lost his ambition. An opportunity for advancement came and he left his old position for a new one which eventually led to his present responsible connection with the reserve bank. He is now 61. Henry Ford made his fortune after he was 40 and Commodore Vanderbilt, founder of the wealthy New York family, made more millions after he was 60 than he had before that time. However, in all such cases the man prepares himself to meet the bigger opportunity when he meets it.

The legislative investigating committee has reported. The governor is charged in 22 counts with various and sundry irregularities. Most of these are of a grave nature and if established will prove that Oklahoma was indeed headed for the rocks when the legislature intervened. The report indicates that corruption was the order of the day and that the tax payers were being robbed right and left at a rate that was making a few men in state service rich. Report indicates pardons and paroles were marketable commodities the question of justice having little weight in the matter. It has been believed all along that this system was in vogue but there seemed to be no way of getting at it. It is now quite apparent why the governor exerted every power at his command to prevent a meeting of the legislature.

"Oh, that we might see ourselves as others see us," was the poetic cry of a writer, but we wonder if he meant it. Do we really want to see ourselves as others see us. Do we want to realize that in many respect we are short-sighted, selfish, bigoted, intolerant, poor pay, and a number of other things that are often laid to the doors of all of us? It is true, if we would only see ourselves as others see us and try to correct our errors, we should profit and develop by the observation, but after all few of us have the will power to do that.

STIRRED TO ACTION

The Evening News

ANOTHER TRAGEDY
(Wilburton News-Democrat)
The American people are watching a tragedy that is being enacted in Chicago.

The mayor of that city—Mr. Dever—is enforcing the anti-boose law without fear or favor, and the three millions of citizens are gasping with amazement over the manner in which he is carrying out his announced determination to make the city "bone dry."

The advocates of clean city government are overjoyed.

Reputable citizens who like an occasional "swig" are maintaining a "pained and parched" silence.

Bootleggers and the underworld generally are raging like caged lions.

The licenses of a thousand saloons, soft drink parlors and drug stores have been revoked for selling booze.

Chicago which a few weeks ago was as wet as the Atlantic ocean is rapidly becoming as dry as the desert of Sahara.

One lone man?—the mayor—is doing what all of the Federal prohibition and law enforcement officials combined have dimly failed to do. He is making the city dry.

The real tragedy, however is yet to come. A man engaged in such a laudable undertaking for the benefit of an entire city should receive the united support of all law abiding people.

An outsider would naturally expect to see popular demonstrations of approval held in all parts of the city in order to extend to the mayor the moral support to which he is entitled, irrespective of political considerations.

But the majority of Chicago's "better class of citizens" do not carry their convictions that far.

They are delighted at the turn of affairs. Being delighted costs nothing—not even an effort.

Getting behind the mayor in his "mopping up" campaign, however, is another thing. It requires an effort, and it necessitates the taking of a definite public stand for law enforcement and common decency.

Many of them think that is not "good business." They have the customers on both sides.

Others view the "mopping up" process with a complacent approval at that begins and ends with complacent approval.

The mayor will win out for a time, but in the end he will be crucified by the underworld and the booze runners and the unscrupulous politicians for the sole reason that Chicago's "better class of citizens" will be too indifferent or too timid to interfere.

And what is true of Chicago, is also true of nearly every city in the United States—and of many smaller ones.

It is the tragedy of attempting to do right—a lesson which every law abiding citizen the country over should take to himself.

Court Fixes Strange Costs.
(By the Associated Press)

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—A Berlin shoemaker recently sued a prominent German actress for libel and won a decision. The actress was required to pay the costs of the case. When the judge asked the shoemaker the amount of his lawyer's fee, the shoemaker replied he had promised the attorney a new pair of half-soles. The court required the actress to pay the cost of mending the lawyer's shoes.

Cleveland to Elect New Council, Under City Manager Plan

(By the Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Oct. 22.—The first big city in the country to try the City Manager form of government, Cleveland is preparing to elect 2 city councilmen on November 6, under its new charter which provides for proportional representation ballots. The councilmen will be elected from four districts, will take office on January 1, and elect the city manager shortly after.

One hundred and twenty-nine candidates, including four women filed petitions, carrying 500 signatures each when the time limit for filing nominating petitions expired. Forty-two candidates for various terms as municipal judge and three candidates for city clerk also will be on the ballot. The judges and city clerk will be elected under the present method of voting.

The new form of government without an elective mayor, places all of the power of government in the hands of the city council of 25 members. The council will elect from its number a presiding officer to be known as "mayor" but he will have none of the executive or administrative functions which the mayor now has.

The city manager will be the chief administrative officer of the city. He cannot be appointed for any definite term but will serve during the pleasure of the council. The big issue developed in the campaign is whether the new city manager must be a resident of Cleveland.

They Could Not See Within the Emperor's Court!

They could not realize the hold that its daily round of lavish revelry had on those with whom it came in contact. Once it had surrounded and saturated one's soul with its indolent magnificence, it was almost impossible to be other than its slave!

See the reckless, riotous lives, the voluptuous existence, the majestic glory and splendor of the Austrian emperor's court—beautiful, gorgeously gowned women; pompous, statuesque officers. The picture sensation of the year! It's love that makes the world go round; it's love that makes the "Merry Go Round"! The most beautiful love story ever told!

SYNOPSIS

Book One.

CHAPTER I.—Joan Landis, eighteen years old, wife of Pierre, is the daughter of John Carver, who murdered her mother for adultery. Her lonely life, with her father, in a Wyoming cabin, unbearable, Joan leaves him, to work in a hotel in a nearby town.

CHAPTER X

Prosper Comes to a Decision.

Perhaps, in spite of his gruesome boast as to dead men, it was as much to satisfy his own spirit as to comfort Joan's that Prosper actually did undertake a journey to the cabin that had belonged to Pierre. It was true that Prosper had never been able to stop thinking, not so much of the tall, slim youth lying so still across the floor, all his beauty and strength turned to an ashen slackness, as of a brown hand that stirred. The motion of those fingers groping for life had continually disturbed him. He went back stealthily at dusk, choosing a dusk of wind-driven snow so that his tracks vanished as soon as made. The roof of Pierre's cabin made a dark ridge above the snow, veiled in cloudy drift. He reached it with a cold heart and slid down to his window, cautiously bending his face near to the pane. He expected an interior already dark from the snow piled round the window, so he cupped his hands about his eyes. At once he let himself down out of sight below the sill. There was a living presence in the house. Prosper had seen a bright fire, the smoke of which had been hidden by the snow-spray, a cot was drawn up before the fire, and a big, fair young man in tweeds whose face, rosy, sensitive, and quiet, was bent over the figure on the cot. A pair of large, white hands were carefully busy.

Prosper, crouched below the window, considered what he had seen. It was a week now since he had left Landis for a dying man. This big fellow in tweeds must have come soon after the shooting. Evidently he was not caring for a dead man. The black head on the pillow had moved. Now there came the sound of speech, just a bass murmur. This time the black head turned itself slightly and Prosper saw Pierre's face. He had seen it only twice before; once when it had looked up, fierce and crazed, at his first entrance into the house, once again when it lay with lifted chin and pale lips on the floor. But even after so scarce a memory, Prosper was startled by the change. Before, it had been the face of a man beside himself with drink and the lust of animal power and cruelty; now it was the wistful face of Pierre, drawn into a tragic mask like Joan's when she came to herself; a miserably haunted and harrowed face, hopeless as though it, too, like the outside world, had lost or had never had a memory of sun. Evidently he submitted to the dressing of his wound, but with a shamed and pitiful look. Prosper's whole impression of the man was changed, and the change there began something like

MONS TO SEND MONOLITH FOR N. Y. TRI-CENTENNIAL

(By the Associated Press)

BRUSSELS—A monolith of Soignier stone containing Belgian earth taken from the site of the monument to native heroes in the great war, will be the contribution of Hainaut Province to the tri-centenary celebrations of the founding of New York, which have been tentatively set for 1926. This was announced at Mons, following a meeting of the Provincial Council of Hainaut, at which the necessary credits were voted.

a struggle. He was afflicted by a crossing of purposes and a stumbling of intention.

He did not care to risk a second look. He crept away and fled into the windy dusk. He traveled with the wind like a blown rag, and, stopping only for a few hours' rest at the ranger station, made the journey home by morning of the second day. And on the journey he definitely made up his mind concerning Joan.

Prosper Gael was a man of deliberate, though passionate, imagination. He did not often act upon impulse, though his actions were often those attempted only by passion-driven or impulsive folk. Prosper could never plead thoughtlessness. He justified carefully his every action to himself. These were cold, dark hours of deliberation as he let the wind drive him across the desolate land. When the wind dropped and a splendid, still dawn swept up into the clean sky, he was at peace with his own mind and climbed up the mountain trail with a half-smile on his face.

In the dawn, awake on her pillows, Joan was listening for him, and at the sound of his webs she sat up, pale to her lips. She did not know what she feared, but she was filled with dread. The restful stupor that had followed her storm of grief had spent itself and she was suffering again—waves of longing for Pierre, of hatred for him, alternately submerged her. All these bleak, gray hours of wind during which Wen Ho had pattered in and out with meals, with wood for her stove, with little questions as to her comfort, she had suffered as people suffer in a dream; a restless misery like the misery of the pine branches that leaped up and down before her window. The stillness of the dawn, with its sound of nearing steps, gave her a sickness of heart and brain, so that when Prosper came softly in at her door she saw him through a mist. He moved quickly to her side, knelt by her, took her hands.

"He has been cared for, Joan," said Prosper. "Some friend of his came and did all that was left to be done." "Some friend?" In the pale, delicately expanding light Joan's face gleamed between its black coils of hair with eyes like enchanted tarts. Prosper could see in them reflections of those terrors that had been tormenting her. His touch pressed reassurance upon her, his eyes, his voice.

"My poor child! My dear! I'm glad I am back to take care of you! Cry. Let me comfort you. He has been cared for. He is not lying there alone. He is dead. Let's forgive him, Joan." He shook her hands a little, urgently, and a most painful memory of Pierre's beseeching grasp came upon Joan.

She wrenched away and fell back, quivering, but she did not cry, only asked in her most moving voice, "Who took care of Pierre—after I went away and left him dead?" Prosper got to his feet and stood with his arms folded, looking wearily down at her. His mouth had fallen into rather cynical lines and there were puckers at the corners of his eyes. "Oh, a big, fair young man—a rosy boy-face, serious-looking, blue eyes."

Joan was startled and turned round. "It was Mr. Hollivell," she said, in a wondering tone. "Did you talk with him? Did you tell him—?"

"No. Hardly." Prosper shook his head. "I found out what he had done for your Pierre without asking unnecessary questions. I saw him, but he did not see me."

"He'll be comin' to get me," said Joan. It was an entirely unemotional statement of certainty.

Prosper pressed his lips into a line and narrowed his eyes upon her.

"Oh, he will?"

"Yes. He'll be takin' after me. He must 'a' been scared by somethin' Pierre said in the town durin' their quarrel 'an' have come up after him to look out what Pierre would be doin' to me. . . . I wish he'd 'a' come in time. . . . What must he be thinkin' of me now, to find Pierre a-lyin' there, dead, an' me gone! He'll be takin' after me to bring me home."

Prosper would almost have questioned her then, his sharp face was certainly at that moment the face of an inquisitor, a set of keen and delicate instruments ready for probing, but so weary and childlike did she look, so weary and childlike was her speech, that he forbore. What did it matter, after all, what there was in her past? She had done what she had done, been what she had been. If the fellow had branded her for sin, why, she had suffered overmuch. Prosper admitted, that, unbranded as to skin, he was scarcely fit to put his dirty civilized soul under her clean and savage foot. Was the big, rosy chap her lover? She had spoken of a quarrel between him and Pierre? They would be looking for Joan to come back, to go to the town, to some neighboring ranch. They would make a search, but winter would be against them with its teeth bared, a blizzard was on its way. By the time they found her, thought Prosper—and he quoted one of Joan's quaint phrases to himself, smiling with radiance as he did so—"she won't be carin' to leave me." In his gay, little, firelit room, he sat, stretched out, lank and long, in the low, deep, red-lacquered chair, dozing through the long day, sipping strong coffee, smoking, reading. He was singularly quiet and content. The devil of disappointment and of thwarted desire that had wived him in this carefully appointed hiding-place stood away a little from him and that wizard imagination of his began to weave. By dusk, he was writing furiously and there was a glow of rapture on his face.

In a cavity in the monolith will rest an iron box, containing the sacred soil. A parchment telling of the decision of the council and

CHAPTER XI

The Whole Duty of Woman.

Joan waited for Hollivell and, waiting, began inevitably to regain her strength. One evening as Wen Ho was spreading the table, Prosper looked up from his writing to see a tall, gaunt girl clinging to the door-jamb. She was dressed in the heavy clothes, which hung loose upon her long bones, her throat was drawn up to support the sharpened and hollowed face in which her eyes had grown very large and wistful. She was a moving figure, piteous, lovely, rather like some graceful mountain beast, its spirit half-broken by wounds and imprisonment and human tending, but ready to leap into a savagery of flight or of attack. They were wild, those great eyes, as well as wistful. Prosper, looking suddenly up at them, caught his breath. He put down his book as quietly as though she had indeed been a wild, easily startled thing, and, suppressing the impulse to rise, stayed where he was, leaning a trifle forward, his hands on the arms of his chair.

Joan's eyes wandered curiously about the brilliant room and came to him at last. Prosper met them, relaxed, and smiled.

Joan's Eyes Wandered Curiously About the Brilliant Room.

"Come in and dine with me, Joan," he said. "Tell me how you like it." She felt her way weakly to the second large chair and sat down facing him across the hearth.

"It's right beautiful," said Joan, "an' right strange to me. I never seen anything like it before. That"—her eyes followed Wen Ho's departure half-fearfully—"that man and all."

Prosper laughed delightedly, stretching up his arms in full enjoyment of her splendid ignorance. "The Chinaman? Does he look so strange to you?"

"Is that what he is? I—I didn't know." She smiled rather sadly and ashamedly. "I'm awful ignorant, Mr. Gael. I just can read an' I've only read two books." She flushed and her pupils grew large.

Truly, thought Prosper, it was like talking to a grave, trustful, and most impressionable child, the way she sat there, rather on the edge of her chair, her hands folded, letting everything he said disturb and astonish the whole pool of her thought.

At dinner, Prosper, unlike Hollivell, made no attempt to draw Joan into talk, but sipped his wine and watched her, enjoying her composed silence and her slow, graceful movements. Afterward he made a couch for her on the floor before the fire, two skins and a golden cushion, a rug of dull blue which he threw over her, hiding the ugly skirt and boots. He took a violin from the wall and tuned it, Joan watching him with all her eyes.

"I don't like what you're playin' now," she told him, impersonally and gently.

"I'm tuning up."

"Well, sir, I'd be gettin' tired of that if I was you."

"I'm almost done," said Prosper humbly.

He stood up near her feet at the corner of the hearth, tucked the instrument under his chin and played. It was the "Aubade Provencale," and he played it creditably, with fair skill and with some of the wizardry that his nervous vitality gave to everything he did. At the first note Joan started, her pupils enlarged, she lay still. At the end he saw that she was quivering and in tears.

He knelt down beside her, drew the hands from her face. "Why, Joan, what's the matter? Don't you like music?"

Joan drew a shaken breath. "It's as if it shook me in here, something trembles in my heart," she said. "I never heered music before, jest whistlin'." And again she wept.

Prosper stayed there on his knee beside her, his chin in his hand. What an extraordinary being this was, what a magnificent wilderness. The thought of exploration, of discovery, of cultivation, filled him with excitement and delight. Such opportunities are rarely given to a man. Even that other most beautiful adventure—yes, he could think this already—might have been tame beside this one. He looked long at Joan, long into the fire, and she lay still, with the brooding beauty of that first-heard melody upon her face.

THE PRINCE OF WALES, TRAVELING AS LORD RENFREW, SEEKS REST ON HIS "E. P. RANCH" IN ALBERTA, CANADA

When the Prince of Wales toured Canada in 1919, he purchased a 6,000 acre ranch in the beautiful rolling country of Southern Alberta about 25 miles from High River, stocked it with thoroughbred cattle, sheep and horses and determined to spend a vacation there at the earliest possible opportunity. This year the opportunity came and the prince, traveling as Lord Renfrew, laid his plans to arrive in Quebec on the "Empress of France" Sept. 12 and spend half of September and all of October directing the management of the ranch, hunting, fishing and enjoying the varied activities of ranch life.

The prince signs himself Edward, Prince, and the ranch is known as the "E. P. Ranch." Its manager is Prof. W. L. Carlyle, a Canadian by birth who had been on the staff of the Agricultural College at Ames, Iowa, previous to entering the service of the prince. On the ranch are some of the finest race horses, Percherons, Clydesdales, beef and dairy cattle from the King's famous herds at Sandringham and Shropshire and Hampshire sheep from the Duke of Westminster's flocks that it was possible to get in the United Kingdom, and they have taken prizes for the prince in the greatest live stock shows in both the United States and Canada. The prince is an enthusiastic breeder of cattle, sheep and horses, and is very well informed on the subject. He has already done much to aid in the development of Canada's live stock industry. Some of the thoroughbred cattle are now on loan to the University of Iowa.

High River is 40 miles south of Calgary on the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the E. P. Ranch is in the heart of a great stock raising country. Cattle feed in the open all winter and thrive. To the west the Canadian Rockies lift their snow-capped peaks a mile above the blue waters of the Bow River.

Among the prince's neighbors are such well known ranch owners as the Earl of Minto, George Lane of the "Bar U Ranch" covering 62,000 acres and Guy Weadick of the "T. S. Ranch." There is nothing official about the prince's visit to Canada and that is why he is known as Lord Renfrew as he rides the range, participating in the round-up and breathes the pure air of the prairies "far from the madding crowd."

Alone And In Want Louis Of Saxony Is Facing Final Years

(By the Associated Press)

MONTREUX, Switzerland, Oct. 23.—The escapades of some royal ladies of Europe in the days before the war, romances in some cases and in others just plain scandals, have pursued their more or less thorny paths of recent years without attracting much attention. People have had more important things to think about. But now more lightsome topics find room for discussion, or the end of some woman's search for happiness will revive memories of the "beautiful princess" who, a score of years ago left the beaten tracks and went off at a tangent looking for love in a cottage.

Today the rate of exchange on German marks is showing up as a big factor in the final chapters of the lives of more than one such woman. So long as marks were good, the allowances paid by generous families anxious to preserve what was left of the ancestral name, sufficed for comfortable and quiet living at some Italian watering place. But the income in marks that equalled $10,000 or $15,000 a year a dozen years ago is now no more than a few francs a month. So Louise of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, in a Paris hotel, is considering the offer of a casual American acquaintance to give her the money to pay the funeral expenses of her count, Geza Matulich, and Louise of Saxony, actually in penury on a beggarly stipend is described as "a little old woman, in great physical misery, spending most of her days in prayer in a bare chapel."

Two years ago an elderly woman calling herself Madame Toselli, rented a little house near Montreux. No one then remembered her as Louise, Crown Princess of Saxony, or as the Countess Montignoso. It was only when she asked the Saxony authorities to increase her allowance, in marks, that her identity became known. No increase was granted, and the income that in 1912 gave this woman $10,000 a year, now amounts to less than 20 cents a day.

Her brother, at one time Archduke Leopold of Austria, is now plain Leopold Wolfing, a Swiss citizen. He was compelled last year to seek paupers aid in Regensburg. Louise of Saxony, whose husband later became the Saxon King, found court life dull in 1902, and ran away with Andre Giron, the tutor of her children, of whom she had six. They went to Geneva, where the princess said the royal rank of the crown prince, her husband, did not make up for his royal stupidity. Giron did not last. The princess' friends said he was only a means to an end, liberty. Saxony gave her an allowance, the title of Countess Montignoso, and let her go. But for years there was bickering over the children particularly the baby, Princess Anna Pia Monica.

Louise lived in England, with frequent visits to the winter resorts of Italy. She met an Italian pianist named Enrico Toselli. Music was a bond between them, and she married Toselli in London in 1907. She was then 37 years old and he was 24. Referring to her earlier life Louise then said: "Now my future is going to be happy as plain Madame Toselli."

But this Louise was not so fortunate as Louise of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, who could say the other day in Paris, referring to her husband, "I have lost him who was the whole world to me." Five years after the London marriage the Saxon Louise was estranged from her musical husband, and they were quarreling about their only child, a boy.

Louise displayed her musical ability by writing an opera, "The Bizarre Princess," which failed, however to do what she most wanted, bring in a little money. Also she published an autobiography in 1911 in which she treated some of her relatives without gloves.

During the war Madame Toselli was lost to the public view. Now she has emerged again in this cottage at Montreux, 52 years old living in sorrow and poverty, trying to raise money, spending most of her time in prayer, thinking of the days when her bold escapades created one of the greatest scandals in the courts of Europe.

Black-Draught Found Valuable by a Texas Farmer, Who Has Known Its Usefulness Over 30 Years.

Naples, Texas.—"I have used Theodor's Black-Draught for years—I can safely say for more than 30 years," declares Mr. H. H. Cromer, a substantial, well-known farmer, residing out from here on Route 3.

"I am 43 years old, and when a small boy I had indigestion and was puny, and my folks gave me a liver regulator. Then Black-Draught was advertised and we heard of it.

"I began to take Black-Draught, and have used it, when needed, ever since. I use Black-Draught now in my home, and certainly recommend it for any liver trouble.

"I have given it a thorough trial, and after thirty years can say Black-Draught is my stand-by. It has saved me many sick spells.

Mr. Cromer writes that he is "never out of Black-Draught," and says several of his neighbors prefer it to any other liver medicine. "I always recommend Black-Draught to my friends," he adds.

This valuable, old, powdered liver medicine is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and has none of the bad effects so often observed from the use of calomel, or other powerful mineral drugs. Be sure to get the genuine, Theodor's.

Summer conditions among office workers are much more healthful, with open windows and fresh air circulating agencies are closed and the air becomes hot and stagnant, says a medical observer.

Haiti Eradicates Rabies — PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 23.—When the American Sanitary found itself confronted with an epidemic of rabies in Port Au-Prince it went to the heart of the matter by going after the dogs, the numberless dogs, that infest the city streets, and remind world-wide travelers of Constantinople, so they tell us.

The citizens were given due notice, and then a liberal supply of poisoned meat was distributed throughout the city. The resulting mortality met the most sanguine expectations, and the menace of rabies came to an end.

Farmers' Column

By Byron Norrell

John Skinner of the News force so far as I have been able to find out, was the only poultry breeder to exhibit at the Dallas fair. He entered some of his Partridge Wyandottes and won first cock in the face of very keen competition. He states that his bird defeated one that had won three years in succession.

I don't pretend to be much of a judge of recipes, but Mrs. Norrell says the following are the real articles, so here you are:

Mustard Salad—One quart onions, 1 quart cabbage, 1 quart green tomatoes, 3 large green peppers, salt, vinegar, 1 bunch celery. Put onions, cabbage, tomatoes and peppers through food chopper, after removing seeds from pepper. Sprinkle with salt and let stand over night. In morning drain off well and scald in weak vinegar. When cold drain off and add the celery broken fine. Cover with following dressing: One-quarter pound ground mustard, 1-2 cup flour, 1-4 ounce turmeric, 1-4 ounce celery seed, 4 cups light brown sugar, 1-2 gallon cider vinegar. Stir all in 1-2 gallon of boiling cider vinegar, mix well and can.

Chow-Chow—One peck green tomatoes, 1 large cabbage, 1-2 pint salt, 1-2 gallon vinegar, mixed spices. Chop fine tomatoes and cabbage. Mix well. Sprinkle with salt let stand over night, and in morning drain dry. Heat vinegar and 1-2 package of mixed spices. Boil few minutes. Pour over drained pickles. This does not need to be sealed if kept in cool place.

Pepper Hash—Twelve sweet red peppers, 12 sweet green peppers, 10 small onions, 3 tablespoons salt, 1 quart vinegar, 1 cup brown sugar. Remove seeds from the peppers, chop fine, and add the chopped onions. Add the salt, and let simmer 10 minutes. Drain and add the vinegar and the sugar. Bring to the boiling point and seal.

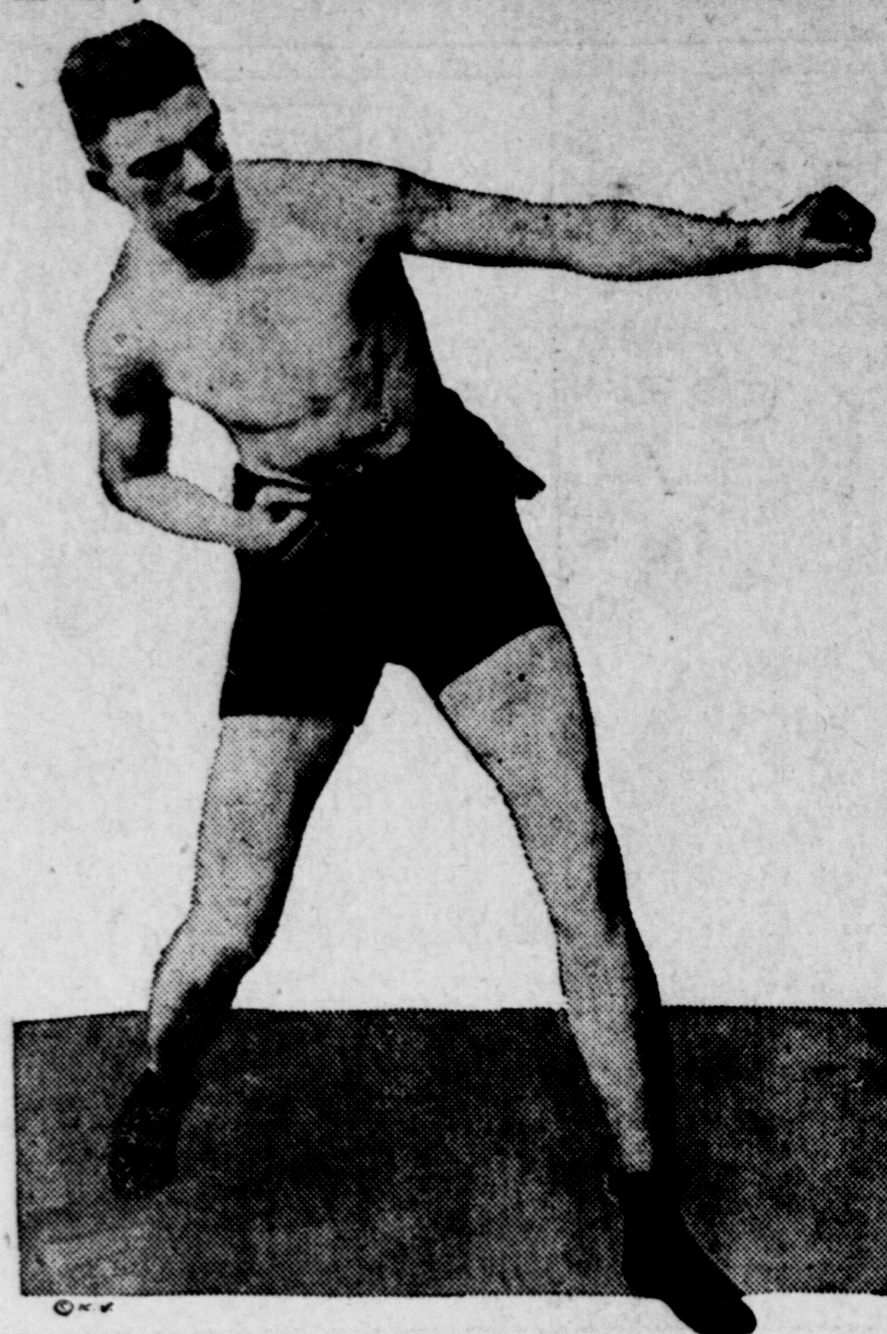

Time to Fight Scale

The passing of the leaves of fruit trees in this vicinity this fall will be the signal for an attack on the San Jose scale, if the advice of D. C. Mooring, extension horticulturist at Stillwater, the A. and M. college of Oklahoma, is followed.

In a statement reaching here today Professor Mooring says that the San Jose scale is "pretty well scattered over the entire state, and is doing much to reduce the number of fruit trees as well as reducing the vigor of others, which may lead to attacks on the trees by other pests.

Most everyone is familiar with the San Jose scale, but most people do not realize how severe it is on their fruit trees," says the A. and M. expert. "If there is any doubt as to the identity of this insect, consult your county agricultural or home demonstration agent. "Experiments in northwestern Arkansas and in many different localities in this state have proven

Young Stribling.

Neither Young Stribling of Macon, Ga., nor the boxing world knows today just where the former stands in pugilistic circles. He's the victim of "one of those things." Stribling fought Mike McEligue, holder of the world's light heavyweight championship, in Columbus, Ga., the other day. Harry Ertle, nationally known referee, officiated. The bout went the limit. Ertle called it a draw. Later he reversed his decision, giving Stribling the bout and title. Then, reversing it again, he called the bout a draw. Ertle says threats on his life caused him to make the first reversal.

that an oil emulsion is an effective spray against the scale. It should be applied in the fall just after the trees have shed their foliage. Addresses of firms preparing oil emulsion spray may be had from the extension division of A. and M. college.

"Do not overlook obtaining a supply of this emulsion and preparing yourself to destroy the pernicious scale as soon as the leaves have fallen," Professor Mooring urges.

TURKISH EMBASSY IN LONDON CLOSED SINCE 1914, TO REOPEN

LONDON, Oct. 7.—It is expected that the Turkish embassy which has been closed since 1914 will be reopened soon. The embassy which is in Portland Place presents a grimy exterior for it has remained untouched all these years. A solitary caretaker has been in charge of the building and he stated today that the furniture was just as it had been left in 1914. He complained that he had been without wages for months but he expected his little account would be satisfactorily settled.

"No, we have had no burglars. There is nothing here to steal," he concluded.

PROMINENTS TO BE AT SCHOOL MEET

Important Speakers Slated for Addresses at Educational Meet.

(By the Associated Press)

NORMAN, Oct. 23.—Dr. Ambrose L. Suhrie, dean of the Cleveland school of education, who is recognized nationally as a leading educator, will be one of the principal speakers in the state high school teachers conference, which will be held at the University of Oklahoma, November 2 and 3.

Among other leading educators who will lecture during the general sessions are: Dr. A. D. Yocum, who is a well known contributor to educational journals and reviews; Bradford Knapp, president of Oklahoma A. and M. college and an agricultural educator; and State Superintendent M. A. Nash of Oklahoma City.

Many other superintendents, principals and high school teachers, as well as teachers in academies, normal schools, colleges and universities will be present and participate in the discussions.

The conference will hold two days, and consist of four general sessions which will be held in the university auditorium. The various sectional meetings will consist of the administrative, science, mathematics, modern languages, history, English, public speaking, home economics, high school normal training section, consolidated high school, deans and advisers of women, religious education, and the school board section.

Among the speakers of these meetings are Superintendent A. C. Parsons, Oklahoma City, C. E. Howell, secretary of the Oklahoma Educational association, and A. J. Shourek, supervisor of natural science, Seattle public schools.

AGGIES PREPARE FOR LONG RACES

Cross-Country Runners Keep up Practice After First Victory.

STILLWATER, Okla., Oct. 23.—(Special)—Despite mud and rain, Oklahoma A. and M. College long distance runners have been busy this week preparing for their second cross country race of the season. Saturday, October 27, they will compete with Oklahoma university runners, at Norman as a preliminary to the AAgie Sooner football battle, the annual gridiron classic between the two big state schools.

At Lawrence, Kan., last Saturday, the Aggie distance men won over the Jayhawks by 27 to 28, on a soggy course. It was the first race of the year for Cosca Ed Gallagher's runners and was the first time a cross-country quartet from A. and M. had met a Kansas university team.

Defeating K. U. by but a single point, is considered in Aggie land a feat of note. Of the ten runners whose places counted in the scoring at Lawrence, the five Aggies finished, in order, as follows: Captain Davis, second; Burnham, fourth; Meadows, fifth; Scoggins, sixth, and Bruce, tenth. Although James, stellar Jayhawk stepper, took first place in the race, Captain Davis, Aggie, was only a few feet behind. James' time was 30 minutes 49 seconds, particularly good on soft ground.

Last year the Aggies won over the Sooners.

In addition to the men who placed for A. and M. in the Kansas affair, Patterson will be ready to enter the O. U. event October 27. He was the sixth Oklahoman entered at Lawrence, but because of illness he could not withstand the grind. In preparatory races this fall he ran second only to Captain Davis.

The six runners who made the recent trip were selected from a group of more than twenty candidates, in a test race. It is probable that another tryout will be held before the Sooner date, in order to select the A. and M. team. Possibly new entrants will carry the orange and black.

IT IS SAFER TO FLY OVER THAN WALK THROUGH LONDON

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 22.—According to officials of the London "Safety First Council," it is less safe to walk the streets of London than to travel by rail or by air.

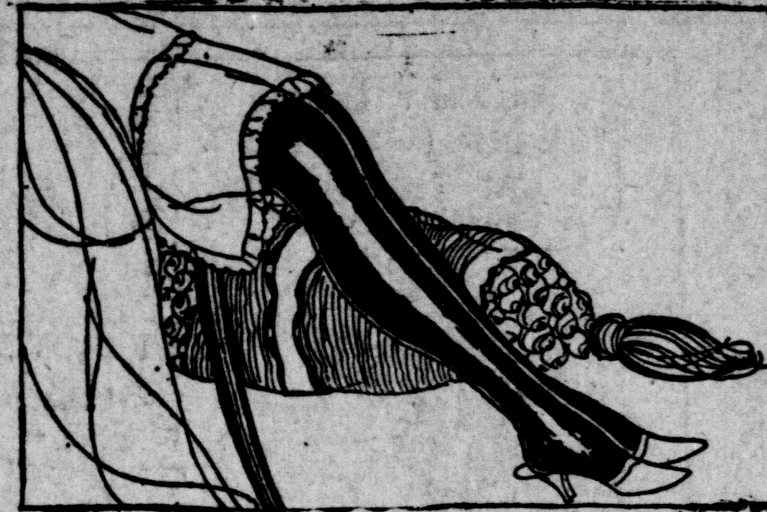

During the past year 684 people were killed and 26,322 injured in London's streets. During the same time the toll on the whole of England's railways was only 728 killed and 19,462 injured.

Long periods of flying occur with out a single passenger being killed.

Of the fatal accidents in London, 505 were caused by motor-cars, motor vans, etc., and 63 by motor buses.

In the first quarter of the present year, street accidents in the metropolitan area totalled 13,930 of which 149 were fatal. Of the latter 107 were caused by motor-cars, motor-vans, etc., and 16 by motor buses.

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—Dr. May Agnes Hopkins of Dallas, Texas, was elected president of the national pan-hellenic congress, composed of Greek letter sororities, at its biennial meeting here today.

The art of making Hosiery wear as well as it looks

Lots of women would feel happier about elegance in hosiery if they could only be sure of its durability.

Two dollars' worth of looks with only a dollar's worth of wear goes against the average woman's conscience.

After such experiences, many of these women have tried Allen A Black Cat Hosiery.

The recommendation that Allen A Black Cat Hosiery has everywhere is for style and wear.

This is a good reputation to have, and it took years to get. The beauty of Allen A Black Cat Hosiery satisfies the eye, and the sense of thrift is satisfied in the long lasting quality.

These are modest claims as many a woman will tell you.

AGGIES TO VISIT SOONER GRIDIRON

Pep Organizations Prepare for Trek to Sooner Stronghold.

STILLWATER, Okla., Oct. 23.—(Special)—The Wildcats, Wampus Kittens and Peppers, three student "pep" organizations at Stillwater, the A. and M. college of Oklahoma, will be groups about the Aggies' special train Norman-bound next Saturday, to do their bits in the A. and M.-O. H. gridiron game, on Owen field.

Colorful uniforms and freakish dress will distinguish the student enthusiasm dispensers from hundreds of other rooters bedecked in orange and black. Members of the three groups will have students to perform at the game.

A. and M. yell leaders, in special togs to denote their individuality, will be another group on the trip. The college military band, in uniform, will be along to play the college tunes.

Membership in the Wildcats is considered a high honor in A. and M. campus circles, it being restricted to upperclassmen who have proved their loyalty to the institution. Wampus Kittens are freshman leaders. Peppers are girls chosen for their prominence in student activities.

The Santa Fe special train has been guaranteed by the athletic department, following negotiations with the railway company. The department will post the guarantee, Director E. C. Gallagher has announced.

Fully 1,000 A. and M. football enthusiasts are expected to take advantage of the special train, which will return them to their homes the night after the game. Round-trip rate of a fare and a third will be an inducement.

President Bradford Knapp of the college, has announced Saturday will be observed as a holiday.

The O. U. battle always is the greatest drawing card of the season for Aggie adherents, particularly if fought at Stillwater. In years past, many treks have been made to Norman by the wearers of the orange and black.

HER LOVE FOR CHILDREN NEVER LEFT KATY WALSH

(By the Associated Press)

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—A charwoman's devotion to children has been revealed through the receipt by the treasurer of the Children's Hospital of this city of her bequest of $1,400 to make the lives of unfortunate little ones a bit easier.

Kate Lucy Walsh lost all three of her own children when they were young. Thereafter she devoted her life to making other women's children happier, and in many a household where she was employed her hearty laugh and cheerful outlook on life dispelled momentary clouds.

Mrs. Walsh was more than 70 years of age when she succumbed to pneumonia. Her will made the Children's Hospital her sole legatee and the executors found that her savings from a life of hard work amounted to the sum which has been turned over to the hospital. Above a little bed in the hospital will be placed a tablet bearing her name.

A Valuable Hint for your Finer Fabrics

FOR the starching of her Finer Fabrics, every woman knows the trouble of boiling starch, stirring it all the time so it won't become "lumpy". You can avoid all this by using Linet, the remarkable starch discovery.

New Starch Discovery

LINET is a scientific starch discovery—distinctly different from ordinary starches. After Linet is thoroughly dissolved and is ready for use, you will notice it is THIN and FREE-RUNNING LIKE WATER—with a "milky" appearance.

Be sure to use Linet according to directions, and unlike other starches, you will not find Linet stiff or jelly-like. This is why Linet goes much further than the old-fashioned kind of starches, and is much easier to iron with.

Even ordinary cotton goods, napkins, table-cloths, curtains, etc., have a cool, soft, pliable finish like pure linen when starched with Linet.

Linet penetrates the fabric, helps prevent wear, and prolongs the life of the material.

Linet is sold by all grocers, 10c—Perfection in starching is guaranteed or your money refunded.

SENATE REJECTS FIRST FIGHT ON REFORM ON KLAN

Tulsa Senator Cheered When He Defends Action of Klan in Tulsa.

SUBSTITUTE OFFERED

Glasser Scored When He Offers Opposition to Hudson's Oratory.

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 23.—The state senate today in what is regarded as the first test of strength of the Ku Klux Klan element and others opposing the organization, rejected an amendment to the anti-klan bill under consideration which would have provided for the filing with county officers semi-annually a list of officers and members of secret orders. The vote was 13 to 23.

The amendment was proposed by Senator H. B. Durant of Miami and was under discussion throughout most of yesterday's session.

After its failure a substitute was introduced by Senator Carl Monk of McAlester providing that the names of officers shall be filed once a year and that each organization shall be charged with the correction of its membership rolls three times annually and keeping them always available for public inspection.

Senator W. M. Gulager of Muskogee opposed all suggested provisions of the bill making it compulsory that the membership be public. Gulager charged that making the rolls of secret organizations public would be for the particular benefit of a "group of lawyers who want access to the klan list."

Hudson Defends Klan
Senator Wash Hudson of Tulsa, democratic floor leader, brought cheers and applause from the galleries when he launched into the most spirited defense of the klan yet heard in this session.

Hudson declared that the purpose of the proposal to make public the names of klansmen was to "enable their enemies to destroy them."

He declared the klan "stands for law and order," and detailed the alleged improvement the organization had effected in Tulsa.

"Let it not be said again from the floor of the senate that because some individual klansmen have erred the klan is lawless. I defy any man in the whole world to prove that," he said.

"What is behind this bill? Its sponsors want only to ridicule and embarrass gentlemen."

Declaring that his life "was not safe," Hudson told the senate that the klan had wrested control of Tulsa county from hi-jackers, bootleggers and criminals long before former Governor Walton declared martial law in the county.

"The Ku Klux Klan cleaned up those leeches of society and those peddlers of dope, sellers of whiskey and traffickers in women," the senator shouted.

"I know of only one man who was flogged who did not get what he deserved."

Fight Is Spirited
The speaker referred to an anti-klan organization in Tulsa as being "composed of criminals and some gentlemen."

"You will never accomplish anything with this bill," the floor leader admonished the senate. "I know I am right and some day the other senators here will learn it also."

Senator Hudson precipitated a sharp clash with Senator Harry Glasser of Enid, supporter of the anti-klan measure, when he charged the Enid solon with supporting the proposal to reveal the klan membership rolls "in order to bring lawsuits against the klan."

As Hudson hurled the charge at Glasser the galleries filled mostly with women, were swept by a wave of applause and cheering.

Glasser leaped to his feet and protested above the uproar that the charge was unfounded. He asked Hudson to "leave my name out of your discussion."

"All right," Hudson replied, "and if you don't abandon your present course the people of your district will do the same thing."

This thrust brought a new demonstration from the galleries and a threat by the sergeant at arms to clear them if the noise was repeated.

Glasser demanded the right to reply to Hudson when the latter finished speaking.

Throughout the morning observers noted that the women in the galleries gave considerable evidence of supporting senators speaking in favor of the klan.

Minnesota Laborite Informs Lodge of "Work Hard" Plans

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Senator Magnus Johnson of Minnesota Farmer-Laborite, wants to "work hard" in the next congress and he so informed Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, republican leader, when they met today for the first time. Senator Smoot, Republican of Utah, performed the ceremony of introducing them.

Senator Johnson said he desired to be of service and to help in committee work as far as he is able. Senator Lodge then offered on behalf of the Republican organization to provide committee places from the Republican quota to Senator Johnson and his colleague, Senator Shipstead. The two Minnesotans will decide later, however, whether they will take their committee places from the Republicans or from the Democrats.

RUSH PLANS FOR ANNUAL AFFRAY

Durant to Send Delegations to See Thanksgiving Battle Here.

Every county in the Southeastern and East Central districts will send delegations of football fans to Ada Thanksgiving when the East Central Tigers tangle with the Southeastern Savages of Durant.

According to information received here towns in the southeastern part of the state will send representatives of the Durant institution on a special train to Ada for the annual battle.

The traditional battle between the two teams will mean more than the settlement of a private dispute between the two strong teams of southern Oklahoma but will be an important factor in the deciding of the all-state honors and the relative position of the teams in the Oklahoma collegiate conference.

The Savages are slated to arrive here a day in advance of the game in order that they may familiarize themselves with the local gridiron conditions.

Special preparations are being made to accommodate an increased attendance at the annual battle here. Extra bleacher stands will be erected to take care of the out-of-town visitors who will make the pilgrimage to Ada.

While East Central has dropped two games during her conference year and Durant suffered only the loss of the tilt with Edmond, East Central hopes to avenge the defeat of last year and stage a rally in the game here Friday.

Coach Joe Millam declared he would not exert his dependable backs in the game with Alva Friday but would hold Potts in reserve to nurse his slight injuries received in the Oklahoma City game.

WOMEN RALLY TO DEMOCRATIC FOLD

Optimism Sounded in Report of Southern Women at Convention.

(By the Associated Press)
ATLANTA, Nov. 23.—Optimistic forecasts for the Democratic party's national campaign next year were brought here today by Democratic women of 11 southern states when they gathered for their initial session of a two days conference. Predictions of victory for the Democratic standard bearers in the presidential contest next year were heard on all sides as the feminine leaders of the party went into the opening meeting.

Gov. Clifford Walker of Georgia welcomed the delegates to Atlanta voicing the pleasure of the men and women voters of Georgia at their presence in the Gate City of the South.

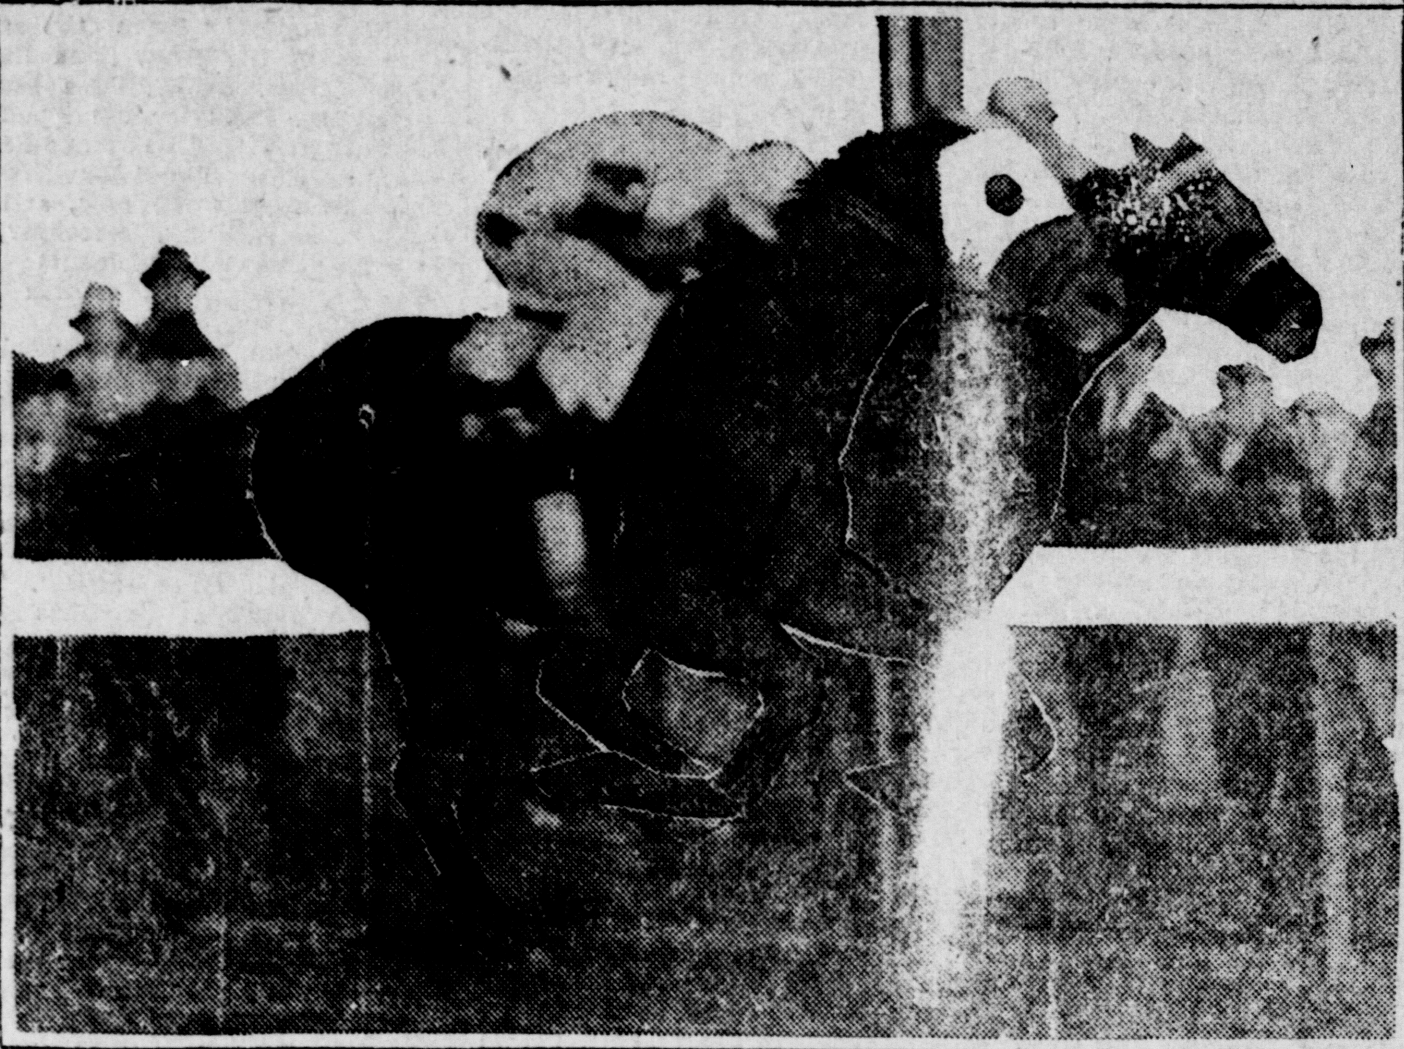

Mrs. Benton McMillin of Nashville, Tennessee, Democratic committee woman from that state, and director of this region, presided.

A definite program of activity among the women leaders of the party is expected to emerge from the conference.

Senator Underwood of Alabama, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, is in Atlanta and is expected to make a speech before the conference tomorrow.

In June, 1914, average weekly earnings of factory workers in New York were $12.70. In January, 1923, they were $26.21.

Why Judges Hesitated When Zev was Proclaimed Victor

The finish of the race. As the camera caught it, "In Memoriam" at the pole, appears to be leading by a well known nose.

EXPUNGE CHARGE AGAINST SIGLER

Resolutions Charging Carter County Solon Claimed Altered.

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 23.—Charges against Guy Sigler, representative from Carter county which were dismissed yesterday when the house struck all record of a resolution seeking his expulsion on the grounds that he had trafficked in pardons and paroles will probably be filed again soon, it was stated today by Representative Jess Pullen who introduced the original action.

The house expunged the resolution from the record when Pullen and other members of the committee which was supposed to have drafted it disclaimed responsibility for it, explaining that the resolution had been altered in typing and its meaning changed.

Sigler demanded an immediate hearing when the charges were brought, declaring he "had always been ready to defend his conduct before the house." He asserted activity in obtaining clemency was legitimate and that he is an attorney and had acted as such in pardon and parole negotiations rather than as a member of the legislature.

HOUSEWIVES FAVORED BY POWER PLANT ARRANGEMENT
(By the Associated Press)
McALESTER, Nov. 23.—Housewives at Kiowa, near here, where the municipal power plant operates only during the hours of darkness or when otherwise needed, were relieved of a perplexing problem when city officials posted the following notice:

"On account of Thanksgiving falling on Ironing day, the lights will be turned on next Wednesday instead of Thursday, the regular ironing day."

ILLINOIS SENATE IS BURLESQUED BY WOMEN

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—A burlesque of the Illinois state senate featured the closing session of the Illinois League of Women Voters here last night when delegates assembled as a legislative body voted to make man the equal of woman. The convention adjourned after choosing officers nominated Tuesday.

Mrs. Catherine McCulloch, prominent woman Democratic leader, presided over the mock session and explained that the women had an opportunity to express themselves towards the treatment they received at the hands of the fifty-third general assembly which refused all legislation sponsored by the women except one law, that for protecting wild flowers.

"Senator" Frances E. Spooner declared that she "would never stand to see sweet men become independent; if they owned their own clothes and this bill provided, and their own jewelry they might run away with another woman," she said.

The race now planned between Zev and My Own, Thanksgiving Day will settle officially the question of supremacy in the three-year old thoroughbred ranks.

But unless In Memoriam is given another crack at Harry Sinclair's mount before or after it is sent again My Own many thousands of followers of the Kentucky nag will insist that he has not been eliminated from the contest.

For the victory of Zev over Woldemann's In Memoriam at Churchill Downs the other day left the question of supremacy a much mooted one in the opinion of those who saw the event, and the photos of it.

The two horses flashed under the wire nose to nose, on the same stride. Thousands believed In Memoriam was the fraction of a foot in the lead. Jockey Garner thought so, too. He rode his mount before the judges' stand only to find Zev being rushed to the stand to receive the flowers. The judges' decision was long in coming. They, however, awarded the race to Zev.

Then came photos of the race. Most of these taken at the finish line and a few feet before it showing "In Memoriam" apparently in the lead. It is evident, however, that some of the photos were taken from a point beyond the finish line, which must be considered.

The judges no doubt caught the flash of Zev's nose an instant before that of his rival's. Accepting the decision, race followers point out that such a finish cannot be construed as a final decision regarding the relative speed of the horses.

Accepting the decision of the judges In Memoriam cannot be shoved out of the running in placing the three horses as long as that sensational victory over Zev in the international race which included Papyrus, is recalled. The Kentucky colt, given its head, out-ran Zev in decisive fashion that day over a longer course.

By his victory Zev became the greatest money winning horse in the history of the turf. The $25,000 which the victory over In Memoriam brought owner Harry Sinclair's bankroll of Zev's winnings to a total of $301,073. Until the recent race the great English runner, Isinglass, topped the list of money winners with total earnings amounting to $291,275.

From that standpoint alone Zev must now be considered the outstanding star of the year, taking the place which In Memoriam held for a brief time after his victory in the international event.

Members of the Norman Howard Post, American Legion have received or will receive cards of official notice of the election of officials for the post on next Tuesday night.

Adjutant Clint Miers announced today that every member of the post would receive official notice in ample time to consider possible candidates for legion officialdom.

A gigantic program will be in store for the officers selected at the next meeting of the post, preparations for the annual convention of state veterans at Ada being one of the big problems to face the incoming officials.

Quiet and confidential campaigning is being done in the ranks of the ex-service men and it is thought that the mind of the organization will be settled as to the desirable candidates when the meeting is duly assembled next Tuesday night.

France and America plan to establish a floating weather bureau at sea.

HANEY TO DRILL WELL IN COUNTY

Local Financier Moving Rig to County Field From Okmulgee.

N. B. Haney, one of Ada's business men, is moving the rig and tools in from Okmulgee county to drill a well on the P. A. Norris and John P. McKinley farm in the northwest quarter of section 34-3-4, in the new territory north of Roff.

The tools are being shipped to Roff and will be carried out from there. Mr. Haney stated that he would have shipped them to Ada, but it is impossible to get over the roads from Ada to the oil fields.

So, as he is generally known here is enthusiastic over the new field, and is willing to spend his money in helping develop it. He already has a good sized production in Okmulgee county, but believes that this county offers the best opportunity for making money in the oil game at this time.

He is of the opinion that unless Ada gets busy and puts the roads in better condition, the city is likely to lose much of the benefit that otherwise might be derived from the new field. Roff already has a good road to the field, and keeps men on the road to help cars when they get in trouble. This service is rendered without cost to the traveler, it is said.

While there is no jealousy between Ada and Roff, and the citizens of Ada would enthusiastically rejoice to see the beautiful little city in the southwest end of the county grow and blossom as he rose, naturally they want as much business as possible to come to Ada. The citizens of the two towns will work in the closest harmony in making possible the development of the oil fields which apparently lie between them.

MORE INTEREST HERE IN HIGH SCHOOL TILT

With ticket sales ranging higher than ever before for a high school game, Ada high school felt assured of a fitting close of the season's gridiron conflicts on the local field today when the Holdenville team enters the conflict as the opponents of the day.

The interest of business men of the city in the financial end of the game insures officials that the efforts in moulding one of the best teams in the history of the school has not been in vain.

While the local team holds the hope over the Holdenville squad, Coach Cox indicates that no effort will be lost in slacking up with the fast gait the team has staged since the opening of the season.

The high school squad will close the season Tuesday instead of Thanksgiving at Atoka in order that the high schools will have an opportunity of witnessing the Tiger-Savage game here Thanksgiving.

The local high school squad has dropped only one game during the season and that to Okmulgee who faces expulsion from playing an ineligible man.

Idleness Insurance Secured to Protect Clothing Workers

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Payment of benefits to clothing workers in Chicago, insured against unemployment in an agreement between the workers and large manufacturers here, will begin about January 1, according to Dr. Willard E. Hotchkiss, director of the National Industrial Federation of Clothing Manufacturers.

Approximately 35,000 clothing workers in Chicago are affected by the agreement, which has for its object the protection of the clothing workers who are out of employment because of circumstances over which they have no control. It will be in effect for two years, and is believed the first of its kind.

The benefits are to be paid from a trust fund established jointly, the worker contributing one and one-half percent of his wage and the employer a like amount.

FORMER POLICE CHIEF GETS YEAR

J. W. Clark, Health Department Employee, Convicted of Assault.

(By the Associated Press)

EL RENO, Nov. 23.—J. W. Clark former chief of police of Oklahoma City was found guilty of assault with a dangerous weapon by a jury in district court here today and sentenced to a year and a day in the state penitentiary.

Clark, who is an employee of the state health department, was convicted of having struck Homer Audrey over the head with a revolver following a raid by state health department employees under the leadership of Dr. A. E. Davenport, state health commissioner, on the home of C. E. Griffith, a farmer at Darlington last September.

Griffith held a lease on property purchased by the state for a narcotic hospital and declared it had not expired when the property was sold and refused to vacate. Dr. Davenport and his employees attempted to remove his effects and a fight followed in which a number of Griffith's neighbors aided him.

UNCLE SAM'S GRID ELEVEN'S TO MEET

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The twenty-sixth annual meeting of Uncle Sam's service elevens at the Polo Grounds tomorrow afternoon, will bring together two of the sturdiest combinations ever to represent the respective schools, notwithstanding the fact the Cadets have suffered two defeats and the Middies one defeat and one tie.

On their season's records to date Army shows to an advantage in the offensive phase of the game, while Navy holds a slight edge in defensive play.

The Cadets have rolled up a total of more than 200 points in games played thus far, with the 73 to 0 count against Lebanon Valley as the largest single contribution to this point total, whereas a half hundred points have been scored against them. The Middies total is 155 points for, and 48 points against. The 61 to 0 victory over St. Xavier was the largest single contribution to the point total.

A review of Army games discloses that the Cadet attack has produced one or more touchdowns against all foes except Notre Dame. The Middies did not score touchdowns against either Penn State or Princeton. The Cadet defense however has yielded seven touchdowns and one field goal, whereas the die defense has yielded six touchdowns and two field goals.

The complete record to date follows:

GRAND JURY OUT FOR WALTON AND OTHER OFFICIALS

Seven Counts Included in Report of Oklahoma County Grand Jury.

RELEASED ON BOND

Davenport and Edwards Held on Counts Taken by Grand Jury.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 23.—J. C. Walton, removed Monday as governor, was indicted today by the Oklahoma county grand jury on seven counts charging diversion of public funds, intimidating officer and preventing the assembling of the lower house of the state legislature.

All indictments against the former executive charge felonies except the one alleging intimidating an officer. This charges a misdemeanor and is based upon the dispersing on September 17 of a grand jury called to investigate his acts as governor.

Dr. A. E. Davenport, state health commissioner, and T. P. Edwards, former personal chauffeur of the deposed governor, were also indicted on five counts each charged with diversion of public funds.

Walton made bonds for $6,700 on the seven charges. Walton, who had been at the court house intermittently for three days, awaiting the report of the grand jury, was not in the court room when the jury reports the indictments. He was in conference at the time with his attorneys in a room nearby.

The former governor asked for an immediate trial on the six felony charges and J. K. Wright, county attorney, promised that the cases would be set as soon as possible.

Walton is charged with diverting public funds through alleged payment to Edwards from the pay roll of the state health department at the time he was the governor's chauffeur. This alleged arrangement existed five months, it is charged, and separate indictments were voted for each month.

The five charges against Dr. Davenport and Edwards were based in the same alleged facts.

LIFE SENTENCE RECEIVED WITH DELIGHT BY PAIR

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—A life sentence meted out yesterday by Judge Harry E. Lewis was accepted with delight.

The court was about to sentence Marie Dubois, arrested with three bandits, to a year in the penitentiary when her fiancé, Edward Tavlack, asked that she be placed on probation. The court paroled the prisoner on condition that Tavlack marry her and stand good for her behavior. Both accepted the terms.

Author's Home Town Pays Tribute to His Work in Dedication

BURLINGTON, N. J., Nov. 23.—A tribute to the memory of James Fenimore Cooper, universally beloved author of the Leatherstocking tales, will be paid today when his birthplace will be dedicated as a historic shrine by the Burlington County Historical society.

Perhaps another great American spirit will hover over the scene of the dedication of the Cooper homestead, Capt. James Lawrence, known to every American school boy for his command, "Don't give up the ship."

The Cooper home has been restored to its original colonial architecture and will be preserved in that form for posterity.

Klan Question Up

TOPEKA, Kans., Nov. 23.—The filing of the report of Commissioner S. M. Brewster on testimony taken in the state's suit to oust the Ku Klux Klan from doing business in Kansas is expected within a few days with indications that a final decision will be handed down by the Kansas state supreme court on December 8.

PIONEER COALGATE CITIZEN FALLS DEAD AT STATION

COALGATE, Okla., —J. M. Snoddy, pioneer resident of Coalgate, fell dead at the Katy depot Wednesday from heart failure. His funeral was held Thursday. Snoddy was affiliated with several lodges and a member of the Methodist church.

Police Court Busy

Police court again drew a crowded blotter from the activities of the officers last night. Two arrests for consorting two for disturbance and one for reckless driving were reported this morning in the regular hearing.

FIFTY-FIVE YEARS OLD BUT FEELS ONLY 35

Prominent Merchant Gives Credit to Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup.

Evidence daily accumulates supporting the reputation of Dr.
Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup as a reconstructive tonic of remarkable power and a general remedy for stomach trouble, torpid liver and impoverished blood.

One of the most interesting statements to this effect is furnished in a personal communication received by the manufacturers from J. M. Baggett, Jr., of J. M. Baggett & Co., general merchandise, of Blackman, Fla., who writes:

"I have been in business here for twenty-five years and have sold the Thacher Remedies twenty years and never have had a single complaint about them. Thirteen years ago I had indigestion and was under treatment for that and liver trouble three years, but as I didn't get any better I quit and started on Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup, which I continued to take till completely relieved.

"I am fifty-five years old and feel as well and strong as a man of thirty-five. A few days ago I recommended Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup to a young man who had been under treatment for kidney trouble without much success.
He took a bottle and it did him so much good he was soon back to work more."

There is no doubt that this preparation has made a distinct impression on this community. Its remarkable record here and elsewhere is nothing short of a sensation and the wonderful relief obtained by so many who have been taking it is a general theme of conversation among all classes.

Panama Canal Agencies Show Heavy Returns in Volume of Year's Trade

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Operations of the Panama Canal and auxiliary agencies during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1923, were record-breaking in volume both as to financial returns to the United States government and aid rendered world shipping, the annual report of Governor Morrow made public today, shows. From the financial standpoint the canal netted a profit of $12,063,880 from all sources, excluding the Panama Railroad Steamship Line, as compared with $9,201,613 in the fiscal year 1922 and, traffic operations increased on a scale that has brought the water way to a point of "rapidly" overhauling the Suez Canal.

The net income from tolls and other miscellaneous receipts grouped under the head of "transit revenue" was $10,001,066 in 1923 as compared with $3,466,674 the preceding year. The net profits from auxiliary operations totalled $1,140,642 as against $223,259 while those conducted by the Panama Canal Railroad Company excluding the steamship operations, showed a profit of $922,171 against a loss of $716,301 in 1922.

Governor Morrow's report also shows that the number of commercial transits increased from 2,736 to 3,967; net tonnage from 11,417, 459 to 18,605,786; tolls from $11,197,832 to $17,508,199 and cargo tonnage from 10,884,910 to 19,567,857.

The phenomenal growth of the past year," the report continues,
"was not anticipated and is in a sense abnormal. It is due primarily to the development of oil fields in southern California, which has supplanted Mexico as the principal source of supply for the eastern seaboard of the United States. The movement of California oil through the Panama Canal began in October, 1922, and has increased with each subsequent month until at the close of the year (June 30, 1923) oil is furnishing 60 percent of the eastbound cargo and tankers tonnage in either direction is approximately as great as all other commercial tonnage combined."

Governor Morrow explains that it is problematical how long these heavy shipments of California oil will continue and points out that the possible discovery and development of new fields may cause the volume of trade in that commodity to decline as rapidly as it grew.
He adds that important contracts have been made, extending over long periods, and, at the present time he sees no indication of a slump.

Japan Shows Decrease.

Japan was the sole nation among the maritime powers of the world to show a decrease in its shipping through the canal in the fiscal year of 1923. All others shared in the increased traffic and sent a greater net tonnage through the water in 1923 than they did in 1922.

"The United States made the greatest gains," the report says, "increasing from 1,095 vessels to 1,994" and carrying 56.5 percent of the cargo moving through the canal; British vessels 25.2 percent; Japanese 4.8 and Norwegian 3.6."

An analysis of the traffic through the canal by principal trade routes shows the most notable increase was in the United States inter-coastal trade. This traffic increased 2,562,527 tons to 8,068,553.

"There is also a great increase," he report adds, "in trade between the east coast of the United States and the west coast of South America, cargo moving over this route a both directions increasing from 93,123 tons in 1922 to 2,954,523 in 1923. Chilean nitrates and iron ore and Peruvian oil were the most important single items in the total.

"The trade between the east coast of the United States and the far East fell off from 2,031,487 cargo tons in 1922 to 1,909,285 cargo tons in 1923.

West Coast Trade Drops.
"The trade between the west coast of the United States and Europe showed a slight decline in cargo handled, which was balanced by an increase in the trade between Europe and western Canada. If the two sets of statistics are compared, as is logical, since vessels trading to the west coast of North America commonly call at both Canadian and United States ports and it is difficult to make an accurate aggregation of cargo on the basis of the declarations filed at the Panama Canal, then the cargo handled between the west coast of North America and Europe, both directions included, shows an increase from 2,058,704 tons in 1922 to 2,511,791 tons in 1923, or approximately 22 percent.

"The trade between Europe and the west coast of South America increased from 946,931 cargo tons in 1922 to 1,749,986 cargo tons in 1923.

"These are the important trades through the canal and account for 83.4 percent of all cargo handled.
Of the minor trades, that between Europe and Australasia continued to decline, but there was an increase in the trade between the east coast of the United States and Australasia."

ing agreements between the United States and the Republic of Panama embodied in the Hay-Bunau Varilla treaty, the so-called Taft agreement and the interpretations, that have been placed upon both, affecting the operation of the canal and the reciprocal rights and duties of the two governments, has been desired for some time by both and negotiations with that end in view are pending between the State Department of the United States and the Department of Foreign Relations of the Republic of Panama."

JACKIE COOGAN BACK AGAIN IN A KNOCKOUT

Before you do anything else, make a date with yourself to go and see Jackie Coogan in "Trouble," his latest First National picture, which is showing for two days at the McSwain Theatre.

No matter whether you've seen Jackie a hundred times heretofore, you've never seen him as good as he is in this one and besides, it is a picture that, for sheer entertainment, would be hard to match.

Imagine Jackie, who doesn't weigh as much as a sack of flour, trying to lug a kit of heavy plumb-ing tools up a stairway; and picture him further tying the bag to a wagon and luring the old horse into drawing it up for him by waving a carrot under his nose.
Then follow Jackie to the scene of trouble, where he contrives to turn a trickle into a flood by smashing the water pipe he meant so earnestly to repair.

Let your imagination ramble again to a situation where, soft-hearted Jackie, in an orphanage, whitewashes his little black pal in the hope that somebody will adopt him, only to find out that the last available seekers of children are a negro couple.

These are some of the comedy situations in this rather remarkable film, but don't get the idea that it is a hokum picture. For from it! As a matter of fact, it is one of the best balanced comedy dramas the local screen has seen in a long time. Jackie starts off a wait, is returned to the orphanage, then adopted by a plumber and his wife and finally winds up as the ward of the wife's parents on their farm.

MANY QUEER PROPOSALS RECEIVED BY LEAGUE

(By the Associated Press)

GENEVA.—Strange ideas prevail with some people as to the functions of the League of Nations. In more than one country it is regarded as a tourist agency. A Scotchman wired from Glasgow asking the League to reserve a room and bath in the best Genoa hotel and buy him a ticket to Rome. An American cabled asking for the names of good American dentists in Milan and of Hague, "as he would soon visit those cities."

Many people get provoked of their grandiose schemes are not attended to promptly. An Englishman wrote an indignant letter complaining that the council had not yet given due consideration to his unfailing scheme to determine the weather in all parts of the world months in advance. Cranks the world over flood the League with weird projects.

FEDERAL DEPARTMENT ADVISES "GO WEST"

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—"East is West" in American trade and the advice "Go West, young man" is still applicable, the Department of Commerce declares pointing out that there is still a new West, rich in undeveloped natural resources and with the capacity to absorb great quantities of American manufactured products.

"Beyond the bounds of the old West lie the oriental and other trans-Pacific countries." The department says. "There the great stretches of the East, from Bering to the Indian Ocean, have become the modern West for the American business men. The trans-Pacific countries claim about one-fifth of America's total trade now, and the business is growing. Moreover, all the fundamental elements that make for sustained growth are there."

"In no quarter of the world is there larger opportunity for the application of America's business trade of the trans-Pacific countries. We need their raw materials and, for the most part, this buying does not present complications affecting the welfare of our own producers of raw materials. They need our finished products and, getting them, will build up economic structures which for generations can absorb more and more of the products of our laboratories, our countrysides and our factories."

Canada's Trade Increasing

(By the Associated Press)
OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 23.—Canada's trade with the United States registered an increase of nearly $200,000,000 in the year ended
September 1, says the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Of the increase exports accounted for $95,664,268 and imports $106,581,775. Total trade between the two nations amounted to $1-113,433,026, made up of imports totaling $806,196,201 and exports of $407,236,825.

No One Can Define It

You can't any more say exactly what Style is than you can define what puts Al Jolson over.

Like an actor's personality—it isn't a matter of definition. It's a case of having or not having it.

Another feature equally as important is Correct Tailoring. Of course, the two are inseparable—and are in our Suits and Overcoats.

When you purchase either from us, you may rest assured that Style was one of the main things entering into our buying, and that our warantee of satisfaction is behind every Suit and Overcoat.

Loose and snug fitting 2- and 3-button models for Young Men, and conservative 3-button styles for Business Men in worsteds, stripes, serges, checks, plaids and coarse Parktown cassimeres.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THY WILL NOT MINE:—Teach me to do thy will; for thy art my God; thy spirit is good; lead me into the land of uprightness.—Psalm 143:10.

FORGET IT.

Regardless of the ultimate fate of the constitutional amendments submitted to the voters in Tuesday's election the people should proceed as rapidly as possible to forget enmities generated by that heated conflict. Hatred has never helped any cause at any stage of the world's history and hatred can never possibly help either Hughes county or Oklahoma.

It is the superlative of foolishness to keep alive the enmities that breed dissension and mar the peace of communities. It is surprisingly foolish to convert life-long friends into life-long enemies at the nod and beck of distant politicians who care nothing for our interests and who laugh in their sleeves at our asininity in pulling their own putrid chestnuts out of the fire.

Let's forget it. We have our own living to make regardless of the issue and our prosperity very largely depends on the peace and harmony of our community.—Holdenville Democrat.

The statement of State Auditor Childers that for the second successive month the expenditures of the state government have passed the million mark is a matter of deep concern. During these two months the receipts of the state were only about a third of the expenditures which is a bad matter. Mr. Childers calls on all departments to practice all the economy possible in an endeavor to keep the state within its income, but it is not likely that they will do this. Under the urging of the governor the last legislature created new jobs by the hundreds to enable the governor to reward his campaign workers and build up a gigantic political machine and the governor himself has created a lot more, judging from his statement that he had 22,000 gunmen under commission. At this rate the state will be on the rocks within a year which will mean more bonds and more taxes. This in itself is sufficient argument for a new deal. A general house cleaning is necessary and must be had if Oklahoma maintains her credit.

That the conservative majority of the labor unions have no sympathy for the Russian soviet system was again demonstrated at the national convention of the American Federation of Labor when a radical who sought to introduce a resolution calling for the recognition of the red government was hooted down. Frequently the cause of labor is damaged by loud mothed radicals, but the bulk of the membership has always been made up of men loyal to American ideals. The trouble is that the radicals make so much more noise than the level headed element that it sometimes appears as if labor is about to start a veritable revolution, but this will never happen unless there is a great change in sentiment. A few radicals, like two or three coyotes on the prairie, can make enough noise to cause people to think the woods are full of them.

It is a wise provision of nature that a normal person remembers the joys of his past life rather than his troubles. The memory of bright days does much to cheer the downhearted. If the griefs and misfortunes of life were remembered with equal vividness we would soon be crushed under their weight. One naturally tends to avoid dwelling on unpleasant memories while cherishing the brighter ones, hence the tendency to believe that times past were much better than times present.

A new turn has been taken in the enforcement of liquor laws by the federal court at Fort Worth. A man and his wife have been indicted on a charge of conspiracy to violate the dry law in that they bought booze from a bootlegger. The judge says one party to a purchase is as guilty as the other. If this doctrine holds up a severe blow will be struck at the bootlegging business for many will be afraid to buy when they face jail sentence.

Backed by the verdict of the people in Tuesday's election the lower house of the legislature is going to try to meet again October 17. The injunction action started by the governor to prevent the certification of the returns by the state board will not be settled by that time but the legislature is going to try to meet anyway. It remains to be seen whether the governor will try to disperse them again at the point of the bayonet.

Now is the time to begin planting trees. To do their best trees should be planted either in October or November. If planted in the spring they stand a much greater chance of dying. Ada has a fine lot of shade trees already, but could set out a good many more to advantage.

Congressman Garber through his Enid paper is insisting on a special session of congress to consider the needs of the farmers. However, like most others, he has no very definite idea of what should be done.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK IS PLANNED

Campaign to Eliminate Fire Hazards for Ada to be Conducted.

Fire Prevention Week will be observed in Ada October 7 to 13 inclusive, according to the announcement of Fire Chief Somer Jones and Mayor W. H. Fisher Saturday. While the week is to be observed nationally with a series of plans being worked out to cut down the cause of fire losses, Ada will have a special method of conducting her program of the week.

During the week an effort will be made to inspect every home in the city and eliminate as far as possible any defectiveness that could result in a fire which might cause disaster.

Following is the statement of Fire Chief Jones: The president of the United States, the governors of the different States, and the mayors of all the towns and cities in the United States have designated the week of October 7th to the 13th as Fire Prevention Week.

When we look at the fire loss of 1922 which was more than $500,000,000 with the loss of life of 15,000 of our citizens, with the list of injuries of 50,000, we can readily see why these gentlemen who hold these high offices have cause to be alarmed at the condition that exists today in this regard.

Never in the history of the United States has the fire loss been so high. And when we consider that more than 75 percent of these fires were caused from some form of carelessness, we must admit that the cause is ours.

I am not saying that anyone in Ada is responsible for loss of lives. I am not saying that anyone is directly responsible for fires that have occurred here that are traceable to the ranket kind of carelessness. Therefore, we do not know when we are going to be the cause for the loss of property and even life if this carelessness does not cease.

I have worked out a scheme which I believe will prove very successful if the people will co-operate with us in this fire prevention campaign. I want everyone to inspect their own property, (as our limited number of men will not permit us to cover the town)—see that all chimneys and flues are in good condition—that all useless combustible material that has accumulated around the place is put in a safe condition, either by burning in a safe place on a still day, or hauled out of town. Furthermore see that all weeds and grass are cut and disposed of, and that rubber connections to gas stoves are done away with, and that any other condition that is liable to cause fire, is righted.

Anyone who after making inspection of his property and who is not satisfied as to the safety thereof, and will call phone 544 which is that of the Fire Chief, he will be glad to assist in the inspection. The co-operation of all citizens is earnestly urged.

SOMER JONES,
Fire Chief, City of Ada, Okla.

ADA HI VICTORS IN SECOND TILT

Sulphur Falls Before Attack of High School Crew in Friday Game.

Ada high school football team triumphed over another traditional enemy Friday when they defeated Sulphur high aggregation by a decisive score of 46-0. The red and white players completely outclassed their opponents in every department of the game and keeping their own goal safe from being crossed by the Sulphur backs.

Playing at Sulphur against a team which outweighed them ten pounds to the man the Ada players went into the game with determination and in a short time began running up the heavy score. Most of the points were made during the first half but Sulphur could not endanger the Ada goal at any time during the contest.

Coach Cox expressed himself as well pleased with the showing made by the team against their heavier opponents. Entering to game with two players ineligible the local team outclassed a team that in the opinion of the coach would be able to beat McAlester.

All plays attempted by the Ada team worked successfully with the passing the outstanding feature of the ground gaining. At least fifteen passes were completed and kept the Sulphur players guessing as to what was coming next.

Baker at quarterback played probably the best game of his experience. He mixed plunges and passes with end runs so successfully that the opposing team was unable to cope with Ada's offense.

Rayburn at center played a stellar game on defense and made a better showing than before on offensive efforts. Steed at end showed well, as did Whitwell at tackle. The team faces one of the hardest games on its schedule next week when it goes to Okmulgee to face heavier and more experienced team. Okmulgee holds a number of wins over Ada teams with only one defeat at the hands of the local players, that having taken place last year.

The lineup used for the game at Sulphur was as follows:

Ends, Steed and Burkhardt; tack-

LOST SLEEP FROM PIMPLES

On Face, Neck and Arms. Cuticura Healed.

"My trouble began with small pimples that broke out on my face, neck and arms. They were hard and red and the skin was sore and inflamed. Later the pimples came to a head and formed small, sore eruptions that itched so badly that I could hardly keep from scratching. The eruptions caused disfigurement and I lost a great deal of sleep."

"The trouble lasted five or six months before I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I purchased more and now I am healed." (Signed) Miss Charlie Harper, Brownsboro, Texas.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

CHOOSE YE:—Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good.—Romans 12:9.

WHO WILL PAY THE BILLS?

There is renewed agitation in some quarters in favor of America cancelling the debts owed to her by foreign nations. Undoubtedly, many of the big exporters of the country would like to see the debts owed to us by Europe courteously wiped out, entirely. This indebtedness is for over $11,000,000,000 and amount to $116 to every man, woman and child in the United States. This debt is now represented by bonds which must either be paid by the foreign governments or the people of America. When this debt is liquidated, it will amount to $200 per head. Do you want to pay $200 for yourself, your wife and each child, for the purpose of relieving European peoples of this burden when you are already taxed at a higher rate than are the people of Europe?—Okmulgee Democrat.

A writer in a current magazine says that the Civil war in Ireland caused from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 damage and that the government and the people will have a hard time ahead for several years to come. It will be a hard pull to recover her economic losses but this can be done by skillful management. The Sinn Feiners in fighting for the impossible gave their country a back set that it could ill afford to face. The world has always sympathized with the Irish in their struggles against British injustice, but in this case the damage cannot be charged against the British. Ireland was the victim of the same class of politicians who have done much damage even to the United States, men who think of themselves first and all the time instead of the good of their country. However, the world still hopes to see the little island emerge from her difficulties and become a happy and prosperous country.

Governor Trapp's announced policy of seeing to it that the state receives a dollar in service for every dollar expended will be heartily commended by the entire citizenship. Handling the public's money is a sacred trust but sometimes officials appear to regard it as a private snap. In the present case by making state employees work hard as they would for a firm the services of many can be dispensed with. It is also highly probable that the present legislature, which at the regular session was the most extravagant in the history of the state, may, under the influence of Trapp revise a lot of its appropriations and ease the situation considerably. The state has been headed straight towards a huge deficit but the chances now are that by wise management this will be avoided.

How one factor in modern life can influence others is well shown in the automobile and moving picture industries. Aside from the employment they give to hundreds of thousands, they have had a strong influence in raising the real estate values in all cities. One has only to note the numerous buildings occupied by garages and moving picture theatres to realize what this means. Were it not for these there would be a sharp slump in values for there are not enough calls for the space these occupy to fill all the buildings, hence the value of said buildings would be much smaller and in fact, many would not have been erected at all, and the lots occupied by them would be still vacant. Such is the complex nature of modern civilization.

The resolution of the Boy Scouts to do a good turn daily might be emulated to advantage by the grown ups. It is especially important in the lives of the boys in forming a habit of thinking of others in their daily lives. It is seldom that doing a good turn for some one causes a person much inconvenience and many more would no doubt be ready enough to do a good turn if they had formed the habit of looking out for an opportunity. The average person is not hard boiled by nature and his indifference to others is more on surface than in the heart. It is just a question of making him think. If every one did a good turn daily it would certainly change the whole aspect of life.

Observers who have traveled in Turkey note a marked change in the Turk of today. The Turk has always been notoriously lazy and has had a contempt for business. Hence, a large part of the business of the empire has heretofore been carried on by Armenians, Jews and other nationalities while the Turk took life easy. Now, it is said, the Turk is waking up and getting into business himself. Observers are of the opinion that this may mean a new day for Turkey, for if the Turk realizes the necessity of getting down to brass tacks himself he may take a new view of life and develop some of the resources of his country which have been neglected during all the centuries he has possessed them.

In spite of depressed business conditions due to the boll weevil and short crops in Pontotoc county for the past three years, business houses that became vacant when the weevil first hit this section with devastating force have been gradually filling up until now nearly all are filled. Indications point to these being occupied before the year closes. If the oil prospects are realized buildings will be at a premium before another year rolls around.

Farmers' Column

By Byron Norrell

The county poultry association held a meeting Thursday evening and went farther into the details of plans for the county show in December. Work will begin at once on the premium list and it will be printed and ready for distribution in a short time. Every effort will be made to put one of these in the hands of every person in the county who is interested in poultry breeding. This year the premium list will be more extensive than in former years so that every exhibitor may have a better chance to win a cash prize. However, the plan to have the judge not on a blank both the good and bad qualities of a bird will give exhibitors some valuable information on the subject and hereafter one will know more about the good qualities of his flock as well as how to correct bad ones.

Just what to do with surplus chickens is something of a problem with many just now. It costs quite a bit to keep the chickens but the price is too low to make it profitable to sell them. My better half and I have been confronted with this question for some little time and a few days ago she canned half a dozen young roosters for future use. She prepared them with a steam cooker, just as Mrs. Duvall and some of her club women have been doing for the past few years. Thus we are saved the expense of the feed and still have our chickens. This is the best suggestion I am able to make. It may be well to remember that when chickens are high again one may eat this cheap canned chicken and sell the live ones.

Here is a recipe for pickled meat which is recommended by the county demonstrator of Pittsburg county. Now that hog killing time is here this is a matter of some importance. If any one has a better recipe than the one given below, he News would be glad to have it, for it might be worth many dollars to some people. Here is the recipe clipped from the McAlester Capital-Democrat:

This is the time of year when the farmers of Pittsburg county are killing and curing hogs for their winter use. Mrs. Lyle Breckner, county demonstrator, gives this recipe for brine cured pork. It makes the meat much more palatable, she says, than the dry salt method of curing. She has used this recipe herself and has found it very practical.

For each 100 pounds of meat use: 9 pounds of salt, 2 1-2 pounds sugar or 4 pounds of molasses or syrup made from sugar, 2 ounces saltpeter and 4 1-2 gallons of water.

If the weather is warm 10 pounds of salt is preferable. Allow four days for curing each pound of ham or shoulder and three days for each pound of bacon and smaller pieces. For example, a 15-pound ham will take 60 days; a piece of bacon weighing 10 pounds 30 days.

All the ingredients are placed in a water and thoroughly stirred. The brine mixture should be prepared the day before it is to be used, so that it will be completely dissolved. Place the hams on the bottom of the container, shoulders next, bacon sides and small cuts on top. Cover with boards weighted with stones or bricks, as iron rusts and stains the meat. Pour the brine in and be sure that it covers the meat thoroughly. In seven days take out all the meat, remove the pickle, replace the meat in the container, weight it down, then cover again with the brine. Repeat this process every seven days until cure is complete.

If the pickle becomes ropy, take out all the meat and wash it and the container thoroughly. Boil the ropy pickle, or, better make new pickle. When each piece of meat has received the proper cure, remove it from the pickle and wash in lukewarm water. String it and hang it in the smokehouse. The temperature of the smokehouse should not exceed 120 degrees F. Smoke the meat until it has a good chestnut color. Cook sweet-pickle or brine cured pork thoroughly before it is eaten.

This same recipe may be used for beef.

A pressing question just now is that of fresh eggs. Most hens are on a strike, not having fully recovered from moulting, and eggs are few and far between, according to reports. It is some joke that Ada must ship in cold storage eggs, but such is the case. If some one can discover a preventive for moulting his fortune is made.

Machine Separates Oil from Water

(By the Associated Press)
BIRKENHEAD, England.—A new marine oil separator, which promises to save much money, was recently demonstrated here.

Oil and water pumped from a ship's bilge pass through the machine, and by a certain process the oil is returned to the vessel's tanks and the water to the sea. Beside saving fuel, the practice will reduce the danger of oil fires on the water, of harbors and rivers.

MUNITIONS PLAY PIVOT FOR WARS

Army Ordinance Chief Predicts Sufficiency of Munitions Reserve to Decide.

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The next major war "will be won or lost on the sufficiency of munitions reserves," Major General Clarence C. Williams, chief of army ordinance predicted in his annual report made public today at the War Department.

"I wish to emphasize the preponderating importance of adequate emergency reserves," General Williams said, adding that in view of the isolated position, highly developed specialized industries and immense resources of the United States it seemed "fairly certain that no power or combination of powers now in existence," could successfully invade the country after American man power and industry had been fully mobilized.

"The possible rate of mobilization will always be determined by the state of our reserves," the report said, "since man power can be mobilized much more rapidly than industry. From this point of view, taking into account the present economic development of the world it may be said that the next major war will be won or lost on the sufficiency of munitions reserve."

The war left the country with a large stock of reserves on hand. General Williams continued, but with the passage of time the value of these is decreasing "due to development of improved and more powerful types." There is also, he added, a deterioration in stocks of ammunition which "is very much more pressing" than the question of obsolescence of material.

The report said that lack of funds during the last two years has prevented completion of the artillery development program worked out at the close of the war and that it has been possible "to cover reasonably well" in a contracted program only the gun equipment for infantry, divisional batteries and small calibre anti-aircraft weapons together with one type of tank. Even the contracted program cannot proceed "to an effective degree" during the coming year under budget limitations, the report added.

"The Department has now been working on the program for four years and can see no hopes of developing for the service and getting certain designs under the limited program ready for production without substantial increase in the funds available," said General Williams. He added that work which could be done in one year by his department now required three years time to complete.

France Finds Dearth

PARIS, Nov. 22.—The French outdoor 1823 athletic season has just closed, and in the absence of startling performances by new comers coupled with the necessity of relying upon Antwerp veterans, the outlook for a French Olympic victory in the 100 and 200 meters distance next year is acknowledged by the French Olympic committee and leaders of the French Athletic Federation are very gloomy. Andre Mourlon, with a mark of 10 4-5 seconds, will be lucky to reach the finals, they declare.

Verquin of Tourcoing and Hirlmann of Strasbourg are the most promising youngsters developed this year, but neither of them has bettered 11 seconds. The former belongs to a football club which plays association football league games each week, which is regarded as likely to take the edge off his form. Hirlmann is a mere stripling and cannot stand hard training.

Cerbonney, Degrelle and Calleteau, all youngsters, will carry the French hopes in the 200. Cerbonney recently equalled the French record of 22 1-5 seconds for the distance and set a mark of 33 1-5 for the 300, but these times will not win at Colombes. The French, realizing this, are bending every effort to train men for the longer distances, 5,000, 10,000 and the Marathon, in which they hope to make a better showing.

JACKIE COOGAN HAS MAKINGS OF GREAT DIAMOND STAR

If Jackie Coogan had not elected to become a screen actor, he might have been a great baseball star, because he is a natural born hurler. In "Trouble," his new First National picture, in which he will be seen at the McSwain Theatre Friday, Jackie displays his pitching ability by throwing everything but the kitchen stove at Wallace Beery—and he probably would have hurled that also, if it hadn't been nailed to the floor.

The story of the play shows Jackie as the adopted son of a plumber and his wife. The plumber doesn't plumb much, but he beats his wife a lot. It is during one of his moments of indoor sport that Jackie comes to the rescue of his foster mother and, when he breaks his huge teeth biting on the leg of the huge Beery, he resorts to missiles and lets go dishes, pots, pans and various other titbits meant to divert the attention of the wife beater. Jackie hits the target in every case, but he shows superb control later, when he crowns Beery with a flower pot just as that estimable gent is about to crush in a policeman's skull with a chair.

Youngsters ambitious to become pitchers can learn a lot from Jackie's style of delivery.

Troubles of Paris Newlyweds Begin With Apartment Hunting

(By the Associated Press)

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The lodging crisis is far from having passed in France. All newly married couples find it difficult to discover an apartment to suit them, even if they are prepared to pay a good price. Doctors and dentists are also among the sufferers as landlords having the possibility of choosing their tenants bar those who are bound professionally to cause annoyance to the janitors by having a number of visitors.

This advertisement in an evening paper shows to what extent a young doctor may be driven to find a place to carry on his practice.

"Young doctor, unmarried, in position to marry, wants one or two rooms in a family apartment in the _____ district. Would pay a high price."

Cooperative Selling Proves Successful with Portuguese (By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—A band of 100 Portuguese farmers, who can neither read nor write English and who are working out their economic freedom through cooperative marketing, is engaging the attention of the Department of Agriculture.

Officials here say these Portuguese, who live about Cape Cod in Massachusetts and call themselves the Cape Cod Strawberry Growers' Association, understand the true principles of cooperation. The secret of their success is a high quality product, carefully graded and packed which has created a demand that takes practically all the berries the association can market.

This year more than a million quarts of berries were marketed with a gross return of $133,000. The association has been in existence eight years.

BOSTON RECLAIMS POSTOFFICE DATE

Founding of First Post Office in country is Dedicated.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Two hundred and eighty-four years ago the first postoffice in the United States was established in Boston, and the celebration of the anniversary this month recalled the manner of its founding.

It had been the custom in those days for the citizens of Boston to troop on board the packets which arrived from overseas in quest of letters and other tidings from England. That was all very well for a while, but as the population grew the habit became a nuisance to the skipper, who objected to having their decks made impromptu delivery offices and the none too spacious quarters below crowded with men and women.

So the General Court (as the Massachusetts legislature always has been called) stepped in. In 1639 it ruled that Richard Fairbanks (of the site of whose home the Boston Globe building now stands) was to take charge of and distribute letters from abroad.

"For preventing the miscarriage of letters," the quaint order read "and it is ordered that notice be given that Richard Fairbanks his house in Boston is the place appointed for all letters which are brought from beyond the seas, or to be sent hither, are to be brought unto. And he is to take care that they be delivered or sent according to their directions, and he is allowed for every such letter a penny."

John Winthrop was governor when Fairbanks was appointed. The latter had a permit to sell "wine and strong water," and over his bar the men of Boston sipped their ale and read their mail and talked of the tidings from far away.

Fairbanks acted as postmaster until 1677. In January, 1678, the General Court made provision for a domestic postal service, the carriers to be paid three pence per mile for their services. Twenty years later the American Post Office was established and in 1695 a coach and mail service was begun between Boston and Hartford.

COLORFUL DRAMA OF STAGE PRODUCED BY FOX ON SCREEN

Picture lovers who recall the pleasure they invariably get from the screen production a remarkable stage play, will welcome the announcement that William Fox has built a drama about "Cameo Kirby," the lovable Mississippi river gambler, novelized by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson. The picture comes to the American theater for two days commencing Monday.

Originally a stage play, it was produced first at the Hackett Theatre in New York, with Dustin Farnum in the title role. Nat Goodwin also played the character. The production became one of the most popular shows on the road. Now comes the screen version, which obviously incorporates scenes and incidents impossible on the stage.

John Gilbert, a notable screen artist, is a realistic Cameo Kirby. Gertrude Olmsted, as the belle of old New Orleans, is equally well fitted for her part. Alan Hale, in the role of Colonel Moreau, the river gambler, has a picturesque part and the balance of the cast is well chosen.

Cameo Kirby brings the music of the paddles as an old Mississippi stern wheeler plies from Cairo to New Orleans; a yellow moon over the clay banks—negro deck hands strumming banjos and singing quaint melodies on the lower deck; in the cabin a poker game beneath sickly lights from swinging oil lamps—a shot in the dark!

Lovers of romance will revel in the picture. And what mortal cares not for the colorful things of life?

Coach Perry D. Houghton of Columbia university football squad has five Harvard graduates among his six assistant coaches.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

IS GREEN NO MORE

"My experience with your medicine has been wonderful. My stomach and liver trouble of five years standing took me two years ago when I took on an olive green complexion. I spent $1,200 with doctors and specialists only to prove that I was still as green as ever. A friend advised me to take May's Wonderful Remedy, and I am green no more. My stomach and liver trouble has all disappeared. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and always the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded."

FELT TIRED, SO TIRED

Indiana Lady Says She Was Run-Down, Suffered With Her Back, Took Cardui, and Got Well.

Richmond, Ind.—"I thought I would write a line or so, to say that I owe my good health and strength to Cardui," says a letter from Mrs. Cora Courtney, 31 Railroad Street, this city.

"I was all run-down until my family thought they would lose me," writes Mrs. Courtney. "My husband coaxed me to take Cardui, so, to please him, I did, and will say I do not regret it, for I am able to do all my work and do my shopping."

"I suffered with my back; a very weak feeling in my limbs."

"I felt hardly able to drag; just tired—so tired all the time."

"It was an effort for me to do anything, but Cardui helped me so I felt like a different woman."

If you are in a run-down physical condition, suffering as this Indiana lady says she did, give Cardui a fair trial. It should help you.

Get More "Shoe Mileage"

You buy cord tires because they mean more mileage—cost less in the long run. There's even more difference between shoes of all genuine leather and those that have paper or fibre in their makeup.

If you want real shoe comfort, style and economy,
insist on getting the Weyenberg "ALL SOLID LEATHER" shoe. You can tell a cord tire by looking at it, but you can't be sure of getting all leather shoes by outward appearance. Paper and other substitutes are often used in parts where they will not be seen.

You can be sure of getting all genuine, solid leather made shoes by purchasing shoes branded with the Weyenberg trademark. They will wear better, look better and cost less in the long run.

We carry a variety of styles for men and boys.
